SUPER-DEFENSE BOARD SET UP BY PRESIDENT

General Shift In Agencies Seen as Result of New Roosevelt Order.

CIVILIAN GOODS HIT

Wallace Heads Group Formed To Divert Raw Materials For War Weapons.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — A general shakeup in defense agencies all down the line was forecast today after President Roosevelt created a new seven-man super defense board to administer a priorities program that will gradually pinch off output of a tremendous amount of civilian goods so that raw materials can be diverted to production of war weapons.

Creation of the board, which marks a shift from peace-time to war-time economy, was authorized in an executive order signed by Mr. Roosevelt. Vice President Henry A. Wallace was named as chairman. The other six members are Harry L. Hopkins, lease-lend coordinator, Price Administrator Leon Henderson, Defense Chiefs William S. Knudsen and Sidney Hillman, Secretary of Navy Knox and Secretary of War Stimson.

However, the strong man of the new defense setup who emerged from the reshuffling by President Roosevelt is 'Donald Nelson, former Chicago mail order house executive and until last night OPM purchasing director.

Nelson was selected by Mr. Roosevelt to be the executive officer of the new super defense agency. Nelson also was named as the new director of priorities succeeding E. R. Stettinius, jr., who was shifted to become lease-lend administrator.

The seven-man board was

FDR Announces Choice to Head Mission to Moscow.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— President Roosevelt disclosed today that he would appoint W. Averell Harriman head of an American delegation which would go to Moscow to consider the problem of aid to Russia.

Harriman has been in London handling lease-lend operations, and Mr. Roosevelt said John Biggers, who has been in charge of production for the office of production management, would take over Harriman's duties in the British capital.

The delegation to Moscow, which will meet with corresponding British and Russian groups, may be appointed within a few days, the president told a press conference, and may have a half dozen members.

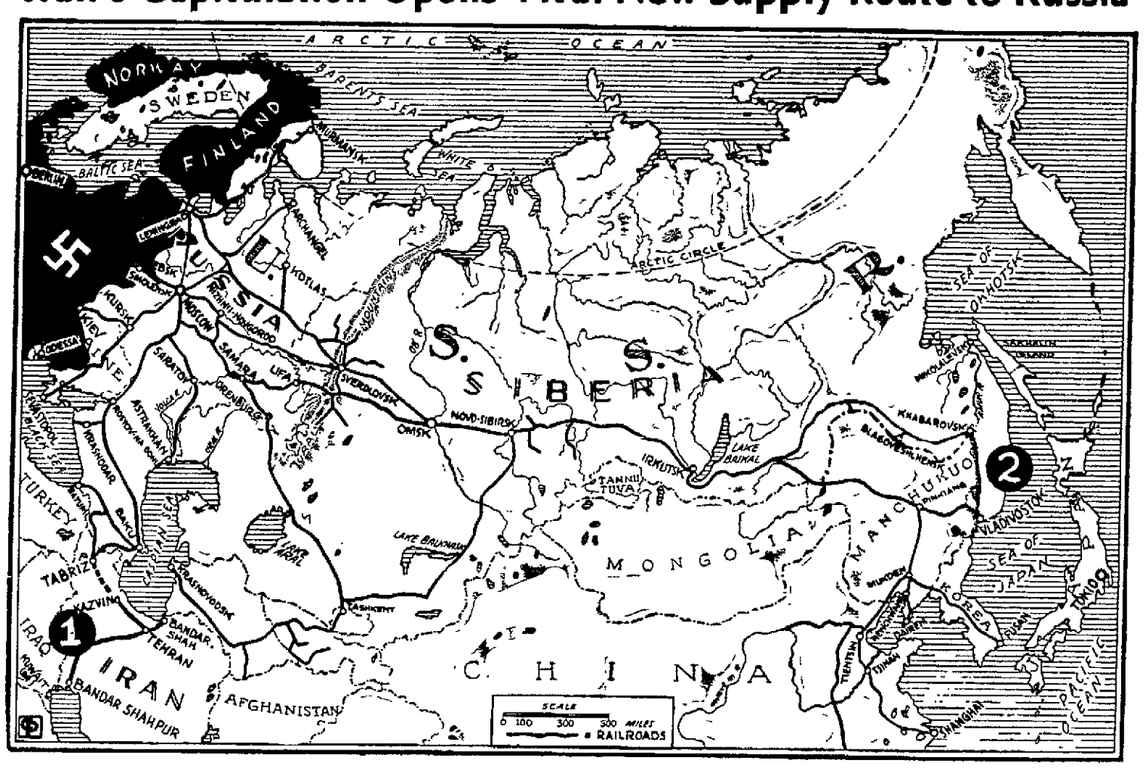
Iran's Capitulation Opens Vital New Supply Route to Russia



Success of British and Russian forces in gaining control of Iran has opened a new route of supply into the Soviet Union, one that is regarded as more satisfactory than the present one from Vladivostok (2) across Siberia to European Russia. As indicated on the above map, supplies now may be shipped through the Persian gulf to the port of Bandar Shahpur and then sent by rail across Iran (1) to Russia. The rail connection between the Trans-Iranian railroad and the end of a Soviet branch line at Tabriz is indicated by the dotted line. Japan is objecting strenuously to American shipments going to Vladivostok by way of Japanese sea.

REPORT LAVAL GROWING WORSE

Physicians Fear Infection In Wound of Former French Premier.

BULLETIN

PARIS, German - Occupied France—(AP)—Pierre Laval was reported today to have sent word to authorities from his bed side in Versailles: I request that Colette not be executed." Paul Colette is the deGaullist who shot him.

(By Associated Press)

PARIS—The condition of Pierre Laval, shot by an assassin Wednesday, has grown slightly worse, according to a bulletin issued at the Versailles hospital at noon today.

Laval's temperature jumped to 39 degrees Centigrade (approximately 102 degrees Fahrenheit), doctors said, adding that they feared the politician's wound below the heart had become infected.

The condition of Marcel Deat—who is also one of the top leaders of the group favoring stronger collaboration with Germany and who was shot at the same time as Laval—was declared improved.

An investigation of the Caen home of the assassin, Paul Colette, was said to have disclosed that he had fought side-by-side with British troops at Dunkerque and had been evacuated with them to England.

Police pressed a thorough search for possible accomplices and pushed complete investigations of each of Colette's statements. Three armed anti-Soviet volunteers arrested yesterday were still held.

New Snag Hits Bridge Job on N. Main Street

Two-Year-Old Hazard Seems Likely to Remain for Time as State Revises Construction Plan, Hikes Cost Estimate.

A traffic hazard for more than two years, Mansfield's North Main street bridge over Touby's Run seemed certain of still longer delay in replacement today as the state department of highways revised its construction plan and raised the cost estimate from $22,000 to $40,000.

Richland county commissioners, who had promised to provide county funds to pay half of the cost if the state would pay the rest, were a bit doubtful if they could continue their promise due to the increased cost.

At present, traffic moves over a temporary wooden structure, replacing the old bridge which collapsed following a heavy rain in July, 1939.

The original cost estimate for a new bridge was $18,000 and was made by WPA authorities when the commissioners were debating replacement of the bridge without outside aid. Later, when the state volunteered to help if the county paid $40,000 toward the construction of an underpass beneath the Erie railroad tracks on U. S. Route 30-N, the estimate was raised to $22,000.

Plans delivered the commissioners yesterday by Vance Grimes, Ashland division engineer of the state highway department, however, call for a

FDR Indicates He'll Touch on World Affairs In Speech.

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— President Roosevelt hinted today that his Labor Day radio address to the nation and the world may include an important statement on international affairs.

The president pointed out that Labor Day will be the second anniversary of the present world conflict, and added that he plans a speech on that day.

His remark came when a reporter reminded him that the anniversary was approaching, and asked whether he had any comment on the occasion. Not today, replied the president, pointing out that he will speak Monday.

WESTBROOK COUNTRY CLUB—With the leaders still on the course shortly after noon today, the outcome of the Ohio Senior Golf tournament was still in doubt, although some seven golfers had finished their final 18 holes of play.

None of the seven, however, was in a position to threaten the lead. The best score posted was that of E. C. Edwards, Toledo, who added an 86 to his 85 of yesterday for a 171 total.

Louis Brush, Salem, posted an 86 for a 36-hole total of 178. Other 36-hole scores were S. R. Reelhorn, Kirkersville, 182; F. R. Fishback, Cleveland, 188; H. B. Hunt, Coshocton, 196; C. D. Douglas, Newark, 214 and C. H. Breyman, Toledo, 216.

Frank Pelton, Cleveland, defending champion, was four strokes off the pace set by Frank Fults, also Cleveland, who led at the end of yesterday's play with a score of 74. Pelton shot a 78.

Big Prairie Resident Dies As Car Crashes Culvert; 2 Others Injured.

One person was killed and 12 others were injured in four automobile accidents in the Mansfield area last night and today.

John Albert Paul, 26, of near Big Prairie was killed while John Lake and Rudolph Bennett, both of Big Prairie, were injured when a car driven by Paul smashed into a culvert five miles south of Wooster on State Route 226 at 11 p. m. last night.

Wayne county authorities said Paul evidently lost control of his car, hitting the culvert and instantly killing himself.

Lake and Bennett were treated at Wooster hospital.

At 12:14 a. m. today William Huffman of 107 Wolfe avenue, Mansfield, found a smashed auto at the corner of Orchard and Main street, in Mansfield, Huffman told police. James Mosley of 258 North Franklin street and Miss Betty Jenkins of Lily street, were found in the wreckage. Huffman took them to General hospital where they told police that they had been hit by a hit-skip driver whom they could not identify.

Motorist Pulls Retired Tailor Back From Bridge Rail.

CLEVELAND—(INS)—An apparent suicide attempt was frustrated today for Albert Schuer, 80, who, poised for a leap from the Detroit-Superior high level bridge over the Cuyahoga river, was pulled to safety by Otto G. Doehner, a city fireman. Doehner saw the man prepare for the jump as he was driving across the span with his wife last night.

Doehner jammed on his brakes, dashed across the sidewalk and caught Schuer by the seat of his trousers as he swung one foot over the rail. Schuer told police he retired as a tailor two years ago and didn't get along with his relatives.

DEFENSE PACE SLACKENS FOR 3-DAY HOLIDAY

Thousands of Mansfielders Get Labor Day Vacations At Most Plants Close.

SOME TO STAY OPEN

Companies Here Working on Defense Say Holiday Won't Delay Filling Orders.

Thousands of Mansfield industrial employes today planned a three-day vacation over the Labor day week-end as most industries throughout the state prepared to halt operations in observance of the national labor holiday despite the pressure of defense orders.

Officials of the majority of Mansfield industrial firms indicated their plants would close Friday night and not resume operations again until Tuesday morning.

The Empire Sheet and Tin Plate company alone of the city's larger industries announced there would be only a one-day shut-down there. The plant, which ordinarily works seven days a week, will close Labor day to permit workers to participate in the holiday observance. About 60 per cent of Empire's products go directly or indirectly into defense work.

In the state, some industries vital to defense will maintain normal operation over the holiday to avert any delay in the delivery of necessary goods, the Associated Press said. Among the plants which will continue to operate as usual are the Timken Roller Bearing company, the steelmaking divisions of the Republic Steel corporation, American Steel and Wire company, and the Otis Steel company at Cleveland.

Akron's great rubber factories and the Curtiss-Wright airplane plant at Columbus will close to give their workers a three-day holiday.

In Mansfield, Westinghouse employes will end a two-week

But Mercury Starts Climb After Chilly Night.

The mercury started back to summer levels again today after two consecutive nights of autumn chill that threatened late gardens and flowers.

The temperature dropped to 42 degrees this morning, two degrees above yesterday's low, but by noon today the mercury was up to 70. There was light frost yesterday morning and again this morning in sections of northern Ohio.

Cloudy skies and scattered showers will accompany the warmer weather, according to the weatherman. He said the showers will arrive Saturday and the weather will be fair and slightly warmer tonight.

The average reading for the past 24 hours was 59 degrees, nearly 10 degrees below normal for late August.

Nazis Capture Estonia Port, Russians Flee

Thunder of Gunfire Heard In Helsinki As Germans Attempt to Halt Soviet Armada; Finns Report Russians Have Set Fire to Viipuri.

BULLETIN

BERLIN—(UP)—An official announcement revealed today that Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini conferred on the eastern front from Aug. 25 to today. The five-day conference of the leaders of the German and Italian states was unprecedented in Axis history. All previous Hitler-Mussolini conferences have been brief, generally lasting only a few hours.

(By Associated Press)

Adolf Hitler's invasion armies have captured the long-besieged city of Tallinn, capital of Estonia, the German high command announced today, and a violent naval battle was believed raging in the Gulf of Finland with the Germans attempting to smash a fleeing armada of Soviet warships and troop transports.

The thunder of gunfire in the gulf was heard in Helsinki, 50 miles across the gulf from Tallinn, and Finnish fliers reported seeing many dozens of Russian ships steaming out of Tallinn and heading eastward last night.

German and Finnish fleets and warplanes were said to be attacking the Russian in their flight from the burning capital.

Finnish aerial observers also reported great fires reddened the skies last night over Viipuri, indicating that the Russians were destroying that Karelian capital 75 miles north of Leningrad. The flames were visible 32 miles away, the Finns said.

Besides the capture of Tallinn "after a hard fight," the German high command announced that Nazi troops had seized the modern port of Paldiski, 20 miles west.

Meanwhile, the Russians acknowledged another major setback—the fall of the great Ukraine city of Dnieperopetrovsk and destruction of the $110,000,000 Dnieper dam.

A Nazi war bulletin declared several thousand prisoners were taken at the Tallinn naval base, along with 22 loaded transports, six coastal batteries and vast stores of booty.

A Soviet destroyer and nine other warships were sunk in the harbor, the Germans said, and other naval vessels were damaged.

Once a keystone defense point on the Gulf of Finland, with a normal population of more than 135,000, Tallinn was reported in flames

JAPS EXPLAIN KONOYE NOTE

Say Delicate Relations Were Cause of Message, Want 'Peace In Pacific.'

(By Associated Press)

TOKYO — Premier Prince Konoye's message to President Roosevelt was prompted by "the very delicate relations existing between Japan and the United States following outbreak of the Russian-German war," the Japanese news agency Domei said tonight, and it reaffirmed Japan's desire to establish a "co-prosperity sphere" and permanent Pacific peace.

The Domei comment was made after all members of the cabinet and some of the highest military officials of the nation had held an emergency meeting to discuss American-Japanese relations following delivery of the Konoye message to Roosevelt in Washington yesterday.

Domei said:

"Well-informed circles are of the opinion that what Japan is aiming at under the prevailing complex international situation is disposal of the China affair and construction of the East Asia co-prosperity sphere with the ulti-

URGES BARGES

Land Says 100 of Craft Would End Gasoline Shortage.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Admiral Emory S. Land proposed today construction of 100 oil carrying barges as the speediest and least expensive solution for shortages of gasoline and fuel oil along the eastern seaboard.

The blunt-spoken chairman of the maritime commission said he was opposed to construction of a huge new pipeline from southwestern oil fields to the east because it would take 750,000 tons of steel badly needed by the navy and maritime commission.

Shortly before this Land said that seizure of 26 tankers by South American republics was under a "pro forma agreement" and that some of these might be used within two months to meet any petroleum shortage in this country.

Rescues Invalid Sisters as Fire Destroys House

FREDERICKTOWN — Fire of undetermined origin last night destroyed the Albert Craft homestead two miles northwest of here on the Waterford road, threatening the lives of two occupants. Loss was not estimated.

The blaze was discovered shortly after 11 p. m., by Miss May Craft who lives alone with her invalid sister, Anna. The fire had started in the kitchen. Miss Craft was aroused by the smoke.

After awakening, her sister, she rushed from the house and rang a farm bell to attract the attention of neighbors. Her hands were severely burned by the wire attached to the bell.

Returning to the flaming structure she carried her aged sister to safety before help arrived. Volunteers who poured water on out buildings were unable to save any of the family's belongings.

Miss Craft said the loss, part of which was covered by insurance, included numerous antiques that had been in the Craft family for a number of years.

The homestead, built years ago, was a well known landmark in this vicinity.

Ex-Mansfielder Offers Plan To Help Ease Dayton Problem

Proposing a means of obtaining more defense contracts to cushion against the curtailment of non-defense production and loss of jobs in Dayton, Paul W. Williams, former secretary-manager of the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce and now director of the Dayton Chamber of Commerce, today had suggested that the city's small industries pool their facilities to bid collectively on defense contracts.

Williams offered his suggestion at a meeting yesterday of the city's civic and industrial heads who organized one of the nation's first defense councils to help small industries survive the loss of business as the result of the curtailment of domestic production.

Dayton, with a number of industries depending upon the electric refrigerator and automobile production for their prosperity, is faced with an economic pro-

City, Truckers to Confer on Down Town Loading Schedule

First step in setting up a schedule for loading and unloading trucks to relieve traffic on Mansfield's down town streets was made today when 16 trucking companies asked city officials to confer with them on the problem Wednesday.

Martin W. Brunner, secretary-treasurer of the Pioneer Storage company, acting as temporary chairman of the truckers' committee, announced that Mayor William J. Locke, Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton and Traffic Commissioner Frend C. Boals had been invited to attend a meeting at the Mansfield-Leland hotel Wednesday at 7 p. m.

Brunner said the trucking companies would attempt to cooperate with the city in setting up a program for loading and unloading trucks at specific hours so that the streets would not be clogged by double-parked trucks throughout the day.

Boals said last week that he was planning the establishment of a truck schedule for morning and afternoon loadings for merchants.

The traffic commissioner planned to combine two automobile parking spaces in different sections of the blocks being used so that trucks could park for unloading.

Brunner said that several of the truckers had individual problems which they would present to city officials Wednesday night following a dinner at the hotel.

by Finnish observers two days ago, and it was said that the city's garrison was preparing to attempt a mass escape by sea.

Presumably the capture of the 22 loaded transports and destruction of Soviet warships meant that the escape was frustrated, at least in part.

With the fall of the port, German troops now held control of all Baltic territory except a few islands.

Along with the Nazi capture of Dnieperopetrovsk (Pop. 500,000), marking the end of the great battle of the Dnieper river bulge, the Russians conceded that German assault troops had penetrated to the approaches of Leningrad.

Nazi military dispatches said that German divisions were within 32 miles of the old czarist capital, Russia's second biggest city, and that the Finns were steadily advancing from the north.

Tersely, the Red army command reported only that Soviet troops "fought the enemy along the entire front."

Russian front-line dispatches, however, said Red armies were battling fiercely to save Kiev, the Ukraine capital, on the west bank of the Dnieper river, while Red sailors and soldiers trapped in the siege-girt Black sea port of Odessa fought to execute Marshal Semeon Budyenny's order for a defense "to the last drop of blood."

The fall of Dnieperopetrovsk, cutting off the production of a large part of the Soviet's cast iron and steel, set in motion a new phase of the vast struggle as the Red armies established positions on the east bank of the river.

On the air front in the west, the British remained on the offensive by carrying out a new series of overnight attacks on Duisburg and followed these with a daylight assault on the Nazi-occupied French coast.

Only a few German planes were reported over England during the night.

British, Reds Speed Iran Occupation

LONDON —(AP)— Britain and Russia moved swiftly today to complete their occupation of Iran and capitalize on the gains of a joint invasion which ended in complete victory yesterday when the little Iranian army laid down its arms after a four-day show of resistance.

Official quarters declined to say whether the Allies had presented peace terms to Reza Shah Pahlavi's government, but informed sources expressed belief London and Moscow would stand on these points:

1—That the Iranian government hand over all Germans still in the country—estimated to include some 3,000 technicians.

2—That Iran guarantee facilities for transport of war supplies from the Persian gulf to Russia.

3—That a steady flow of oil be maintained to feed the British navy, army and air force in the Middle East.

It was regarded as a foregone conclusion the British and Russians would insist on retaining military control of all strategic points in Iran until the end of the war. The Allies have asserted, however, that they have no designs on Iran's independence or territorial integrity, and it was assumed the Teheran government would be permitted to retain control of the domestic administration.

vacation Monday night. Approximately 100 maintenance men will be the only employes on the job at the plant over the week-end. Other workers will return Tuesday morning.

Mansfield industries handling defense orders indicated the extra holiday Monday would not hold up delivery of the orders. The Ohio Brass company, employing about 800 workers who are producing more than $350,000 worth of defense contracts, reported that progress on the orders is "normal" despite the holiday.

With 350 employes working two shifts, the Ideal Electric company is among the Mansfield firms which will observe a three-day week-end. About 85 per cent of the company's operations are devoted to defense production.

The Tappan Stove company, with several defense orders in the experimental stage, will experience no marked let-down in production as a result of the holiday, a company spokesman said.

Mansfield labor organizations will join other groups in a city-wide Labor day celebration Monday. The program will include a parade at 10 a. m., talks by labor leaders at Central park shortly before noon, and contests and entertainment at North Lake park in the afternoon.

ENDS STRIKE

CIO Agrees to Return to Work At U. S. Gypsum Plants.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The defense mediation board announced today that a CIO union had agreed to end a strike in 17 plants of the United States Gypsum company

Board officials said that the Gas, By-products, Coke and Chemical Workers (CIO) said it was notifying 3,000 employes on strike to return to their jobs at once.

The board had asked the union to end the stoppage in the interest of national defense. In so doing the board promised that a special representative would be appointed to investigate four unsettled issues in the dispute.

The strike has been in effect since June 26, and officials said that it had tied up about 40 per cent of the total national output of gypsum, plaster and wall board necessary for defense housing.

One of the plants involved in the dispute is located at Genoa, Ohio.

$40,000 bridge. Grimes explained that the bridge planned by the state was a permanent one with sidewalks and provisions for future deepening of the channel.

County commissioners Ray Hout and Guy Stewart made little comment on the proposed structure, saying that Chairman C. L. Mitchell was in Columbus and that no action would be taken before Wednesday. Hout, however, stated that he believed that cost was "a little high."

Grimes said that the $22,000 bridge, planned by the WPA, was only a "floating culvert" type and that the state wished a better structure to carry the traffic of State Route 13.

At the same time, Grimes announced that the recent order of State Highway Director Hal G. Sours, that all unnecessary bridges and steel construction will be removed from the state's program to conserve essential materials for defense work, would not affect the North Main street project.

Grimes stated that the project was already for contract advertisement except for approval of the financial arrangement by the commissioners.

Although Grimes believed that the order would affect the construction of the overhead above the Baltimore and Ohio railroad tracks on West Fourth street and the Erie underpass, officials of the Lombardo Bros. Construction company in Cleveland, which is doing the work, announced that 66 per cent of the steel needed for the B & O. project was already received and that orders for the other steel had been placed before the priority order was made.

The contractor said he was reasonably certain that no trouble would be met in obtaining the necessary steel for the projects. The steel structural work has been sublet to the American Bridge company which will not only supply but erect the steel

SUPERINTENDENTS SET STAGE FOR OPENING RURAL SCHOOLS

Heads of Richland county's rural schools set the stage yesterday for the return of nearly 5,000 pupils to classes during the next two weeks as the new term begins in the rural districts. Most of the schools will open Tuesday. Mansfield city schools open Wednesday.

The Bellville schools, scheduled to start the 1941-42 term Monday, will lead the parade of openings. The boys and girls at Plymouth still have more than two weeks of vacation left since their classes are not due to begin until Sept. 15.

Plans for all the openings were outlined yesterday afternoon by superintendents of the rural districts at a meeting with County Supt Boyd Robinson at the courthouse. Registration blanks and other office supplies needed for the opening were distributed to the heads of the schools.

Construction of new shop buildings will delay the opening of two of the schools, it was said. Pupils will not go back to their classes at Ontario until Sept. 8, while the Plymouth classes will get under way a week later.

At Plymouth, elementary pupils will have to begin the term in the high school building. Construction is under way there on a new elementary building and shop. It is possible the shop structure will be ready for occupancy by Sept. 16, but the grade school will not be completed for several weeks, school officials said.

New shops also are expected to be ready for use at the Union rural and Ontario schools by their opening dates or soon after the term begins.

Seven of the county schools will open Tuesday. They are Lexington, Mifflin township, Cass township at Shiloh, Union rural, Lucas, Madison, and Butler. The Sharon schools near Shelby, like the Springfield township district, will not start the fall term until Sept. 8.

blem similar to that which it appears Mansfield must solve this fall and winter.

A move is already under way here to get more defense contracts so that industries which are unable to get materials for domestic production will not have to lay off workers this fall when the OPM curtailment order goes into effect.

It was pointed out that defense contracts for the smaller plants will enable them to employ some of the workers who lose their jobs at the large factories.

mate object of ushering in an era of permanent peace in the Pacific, and in consideration of the very delicate relations existing between Japan and the United States following outbreak of the Russian-German war Prince Konoye conveyed Japan's firm conviction on this broad viewpoint to President Roosevelt."

The important commercial newspaper Chugai indicated a belief the American-Japanese crisis could be settled amicably. "From time immemorial," said Chugai," there has been no problem which could not be settled by mutual conversations between Japan and the United States."

Earlier a brief official announcement said that the Konoye message outlined "the imperial government's attitude toward the Pacific situation."

Government spokesmen said the message was intended as "an examination of the cause of trouble in the delicate situation between Japan and the United States" and that shipments of oil and war supplies to Russia via the Far East undoubtedly would be included in any conversations with the United States.

Withholds Opinion On Pacific Peace

WASHINGTON —(INS)— President Roosevelt today said the question of peace in the Pacific is, like the ocean itself too broad to venture an opinion at present whether war can be averted there.

This was the only positive comment made by the chief executive concerning his conference with Japanese Ambassador Kichisaburo Nomura, and the plans for exploritory peace talks between the United States and Japan.

Asked whether he thought it would be too broad a question to inquire, whether, as a result of latest developments, he was hopeful that war in the Pacific could be averted, he replied the question was, like the ocean itself, both too broad and too long.

Berlin Reports U.S.-Jap Agreement

NEW YORK—(INS)—The Berlin radio today reported a declaration by the director of the department of the ministry of foreign affairs in Tokyo to the effect that "an agreement with the United States has taken place," according to a broadcast picked up in New York by NBC.

Japanese Report Chinese Launch Broad Counter-Offensive.

SHANGHAI —(AP)— Generalissimo Chiank Kai-Shek's forces on Aug. 26 opened an offensive at 40 points west of Shanghai along a 150-mile line, a Japanese army spokesman acknowledged today.

This was the first important Chinese counter-offensive in the region of Cheakiang and Anhwei provinces. The Japanese asserted that the Chinese attacks were repulsed everywhere.

charged with drawing up the broad defense policies. After it sets the policies, it will be up to Nelson to carry them out. Nelson has seen more eye-to-eye with the New Deal than most of the 400 dollar-a-year men who have been drafted into various agencies.

Nelson is expected to order changes in personnel and duties of many defense officials.

Mr. Roosevelt also ordered John D. Biggers, OPM director of production, to London with rank of minister, as an assistant administrator of the lease-lend program under W. Averill Harriman.

Mr. Roosevelt, in his executive order, said that army and navy needs will first be given the right of way. The needs of Britain, China and Russia will be considered second. The materials needed to wage economic warfare or a trade war against the Axis powers will be given next consideration.

In a fourth class, will be placed materials that can be spared for civilian goods for domestic consumption. Ultimately, this will mean a large cut in output of consumer items.

President Roosevelt called his new agency "the supply priorities and allocations board" At the same time, he reshuffled some of the duties of present officers. He named Henderson, who has been head of the office of price administration and civilian supply, as simply civilian supply director.

Mr. Roosevelt, in setting up the new agency, pointed out that adequate provisions are being made to prevent sharp dislocation of labor because of changeovers from domestic to defense production.

He ordered the shakeup after wide-spread criticism of purported lack of centralization in administration of the "all-out" $50,000,000,000 defense program. It is reported that there had been many fights and feuds among defense agencies. Particularly bitter was the controversy between OPM and OPACS over the right of administering the priorities orders that will cut automobile production.

Mr. Roosevelt's new agency will have the final say in determining how much raw materials can be spared from civilian needs to military needs. In the final analysis the new allocation board will decide just how many automobiles, refrigerators, washers, ironers, radios and thousands of other every day items will be produced. Then, it will be up to Nelson and other defense agencies to carry out the basic defense policies laid down. In a week or so it also may have to decide how many new homes can be built in this country because materials used in residence building are becoming more and more scarce.

Until American productive capacity can be expanded, one defense expert estimated, civilian goods output probably will have to be cut by some $25,000,000,000 dollars a year. Later bigger cuts may be in store.

MISS TERESA WEAVER MARRIED THURSDAY IN CHURCH CEREMONY

CRESTLINE — Miss Teresa Weaver, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Stephen S. Weaver, South Seltzer street became the bride of Merle E. Lyon of Canton, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Lyon of Galion in a nuptial high mass Thursday at St. Joseph's Catholic church.

Rev. F. A. Slattery officiated using the double ring ceremony.

White gladioli and white asters decorated the church altar for the ceremony which was witnessed by a large assembly of relatives and friends.

Nuptial music was sung by the adult choir of the church with Miss Sarah Dunn at the organ console.

For her wedding the bride chose a white tulle gown made princess style. Her bridal veil trimmed in gold ended in a long train and she carried an arm bouquet of white flowers.

Mrs. Robert Tidd of Mansfield was matron of honor for her sister. Miss Joan Sherbundy of Crestline was bridesmaid. Both wore identical gowns of light blue tulle with net toppers trimmed with red roses. Their flowers were blue delphinium and red roses.

Little Betty Blaising as train bearer wore a long peach frock.

Robert Tidd of Mansfield served as best man. Ferdinand Weaver, brother of the bride was usher.

A reception for about 20 relatives and friends was held at the Gibson House after the ceremony. Later in the day the couple left on a short honeymoon trip. On their return they will reside in Canton.

For traveling the bride wore a black velvet ensemble.

The bride graduated from Crestline high school and trained at Mercy hospital in Canton where she is employed as a technician.

The groom is a graduate of Galion high school and is employed by the Hoover company at North Canton.

HEADS ASHLAND CHURCH GROUP

College Senior Re-elected President of Brethren Sisterhood.

ASHLAND—Sybil Saylor, Winona Lake, Ind., a senior at Ashland college, was re-elected president of the Sisterhood of Mary and Martha at the Thursday meeting of that group in conjunction with the National General conference of the Brethren church meeting at Ashland college this week.

Ruth Clapper, Louisville, O., who graduated from Ashland college this spring, will replace as vice president Helen Shively, college reference librarian.

Other officers who were retained for another year are Olive Whitted, Gratis, general secretary; Dorothy Carpenter, South Bend, Ind., financial secretary; Marie Miller, Louisville, O., treasurer; Janet King, Ashland, literature secretary. Mrs. E. M. Riddle, Louisville, O., will serve as patroness of the group.

The organization decided upon Indiana as the district for visitation during the coming year. The project for the year will be the raising of a fund to be used at the discretion of Dr. C. F. Yoder, missionary in Argentina, for furthering of mission work in South America.

For its coming year's mission study theme the senior group has chosen "The Armor of God" while the junior group has as its theme "Great Women of the Old Testament."

Thursday noon the Sisterhood held their annual luncheon at which time Adah Drushal from the Riverside Training School told of the uses to which the bus given by the Sisterhood to the school had been put.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, FRIDAY, AUGUST 29, 1941.

With fateful August near its end, we'll soon be noting September's trend.

"A little learning is a dangerous thing" in ordinary times, but reading a bit of history right now will do nobody any harm.

Word comes that the largest cranberry crop since 1937 is ripening in the Cape Cod area—which seems to clear the way for another double Thanksgiving.

Another Dangerous Week-End

WHATEVER benefits may come from revision of Ohio's motor vehicle laws, to become effective next week, the three-day holiday period which starts tomorrow holds little promise of reduction in traffic fatalities and injuries.

National, state and local records of motor vehicle accidents have been discouraging, thus far in 1941, and fear is expressed that the annual toll will be considerably higher than that of last year.

Speed, Carelessness, Recklessness and Intoxication, will again—in all probability—be the Four Horsemen of death and destruction that will ride Ohio highways over the week-end and through Monday.

All that can be said is to again warn motorists to use the utmost care in their own driving and to be on the alert to avoid being involved in an accident that might easily result from the carelessness or negligence of someone else.

Greatest possible effort at traffic law enforcement by police departments and state highway patrolmen can also be made a contributing factor in reducing the number of accidents.

More Talk of Calendar Revision

WHILE plans are being made to reform the world after this war, it is natural to tackle the calendar again. It seems to need changing mainly for business purposes, and business men who have studied the new World Calendar association plan are said to be mostly in favor of it.

There wouldn't be any drastic changes. The year would still have 12 months, but they would be smoothed out around the edges. Every year would start on Sunday and there would always be 26 business days in a month. Dates in the month would always come back next year on the same week days. There would be four equal quarters in the year and yearly dates would always be the same.

This obviously would simplify public and private business. Only six actual changes of days or dates would have to be made. The most radical proposal is to make Dec. 31 a 48-hour day, which would provide unprecedented scope for seeing the old year out and the new year in. Christmas would always come on Monday, so there would be a two-day holiday at that point.

All this it is hoped to make effective in the year 1945, a little more than three years hence, by which time the reformers expect the war to be over. It would fit in nicely with a fresh start all round.

Ways To Save Gasoline

SAVING gasoline now is not only good citizenship but good sense. Nearly everyone could benefit financially as well as spiritually by doing so. Here are a few good hints from an expert:

Accelerate gently instead of pumping fuel into the motor faster than it can be burned to advantage.

Drive as little as possible in second gear.

Coast down hill and coast to a stop when you can.

Driving is most economical between 25 and 40 miles an hour.

Keep the motor tuned up, with clean spark plugs, well-set valves and ignition points.

Don't keep the motor idling long.

After starting, be sure the choke is closed.

Don't have a nervous toe, pumping the accelerator up and down.

Where Coolness Counts

A WOMAN WRITER, giving advice on how to keep cool, says: "It's not the heat that strikes your burning or perspiring brow that does the damage. It's the heat that falls on the back of the neck."

The heat wave may be over now. But there will be other suns and other summers. Why not learn a little something as one goes along? The long flap that hangs from the back of the pith helmet in hot countries is not a fad, but a sensible provision for keeping the neck cool. And that's the great thing to be desired. A cool damp cloth laid along the base of the brain is one of the best bets for keeping sane on the too-hot days.

There are other items such as drinking hot tea instead of too many iced drinks. It works, as the British in India can testify, but it's hard to convince Americans of this.

One Man's Idea of Waste

A CITIZEN named Bellachey, of Paisley, Ontario, is complaining about the huge brewery trucks roaring around the province with their big loads of beer. He thinks they should be taken off the highways for the duration of the war, saving much-needed gasoline.

A Canadian newspaper goes a little farther and suggests that the breweries themselves be shut down till the war's over, thus making a double saving.

It's not always safe, though, to be dogmatic about that sort of thing. In England the "pub" is regarded as the poor man's club, and it seems to be generally felt that beer, now pretty thin, helps to win the war by sustaining morale. America, so far, is not facing any such problem.

Another Disillusionment

VETERANS of the famous gold-rush days in Alaska and the Yukon, meeting in Los Angeles the other day to recall that stirring period, broke down and admitted that the traditions were mostly bunk. There was romance, of one sort or another, but there was far more privation than fun. There was really little truth in the traditions of blazing guns, gold-dust robberies and bodies revealed by melting snow in the spring.

Robert W. Service, the particular poet and romanticist of that pioneer region, who served as bank clerk, says the sourdoughs didn't pack guns except for hunting, and a man was safer there in the early days than he is now in Los Angeles. So bang goes another illusion.

LOOK WHO'S HOLLERING FOR FAIRNESS!!

How Defense Reshapes Industry

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — National defense has given new meaning to the word "conversion" and there are few industrialists with production and pocketbooks squeezed by priorities and the like who aren't lying awake nights thinking about it.

OPM, the army, the navy and all other national defense buyers are thinking about it, too.

"Conversion" means changing plant facilities from manufacture of articles for civilian consumption to articles for national defense.

The complications of it can be left until another time. What I started out to tell you was that "conversion" is making some of the strangest industrial bedfellows that ever stretched out on an assembly line.

It may not be so startling that B. F. Goodrich, the rubber producer, is loading bounceless shells and bombs at a Texarkana, Tex., plant, or that Willys-Overland Motors, right along with their "Jeeps," are turning out 155-millimeter shells—but the army contract records do give you a jolt when you see that the nation's largest manufacturers of mousetraps now are getting a path beaten to their doors to pick up thousands of army cots.

YOU wouldn't expect the Kohler Corp., at Kohler, Wis., which is responsible for a lot of bathroom fixtures, to be making fuses — but once you have that down, try to figure out why the lipstick makers, whose only explosions heretofore have been in the realm of romance, also are making these little gadgets that set off death from the sky.

While we are in the cosmetics field, note too that a big Linden, N. J., producer of compacts now is rolling out percussion caps.

Pipe organ makers are grinding away on saddle frames. Casket makers, as if they didn't have enough to do in wartime, are doing three shifts a day on bomb bodies and fins.

TWO silverware companies that never before made anything more warlike than a knife and fork for massacring a T-bone, are making cartridge clips. Vacuum cleaner companies are making gas masks. Parking meters have been converted into bomb mechanisms, hair clippers into machine gun belt links, cream separators into gun tripods, and slide fasteners into gauges. And for some strange reason, the Armstrong Cork Co. is making shells.

The list is longer than that. For the present it has no end. Even as you read this, industrial experts for the army and navy and OPM are in the field, searching out plants that in a twinkling can be changed from production of articles of peace to the instruments of war.

I WANT to tell you, as it was told to me, about one of the more recent results of this search and how a big boom has come to the quiet little resort town of Bantam, Conn.

In that town where business never has bustled at all, there was a fellow who got the idea of making aluminum barber chairs. It was an innovation—a new idea that had to be sold. It was slow-going at first but it WAS going and right nicely. New machine tools had been produced and aluminum experts brought in as the business expanded.

Then came national defense and the aluminum shortage. Imagine where the aluminum barber chair business might have been today. But something happened. Somebody discovered that the Bantam manufacturer had facilities to make one thing the army and navy wanted badly — seats for bombers.

That's how Bantam got its boom and that's how hundreds of other manufacturers who figured out how to be "convertible" have quit singing the priorities blues.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Monday, Aug. 29, 1921.

With Charley French again under arrest in Chicago, Mansfielders were recalling promotion operations of French in this city.

Rev. H. E. Kuntz was returned to pastorate of South Main Evangelical church.

Mrs. Jacob Fisher, 72, died.

Several Mansfield attorneys were attending convention of American Bar association in Cincinnati.

Miss Alice Morkel and Harold Miller were married at the Lutheran church in Crestline.

Miss Thelma Reed returned from month's visit in Chicago.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

Saturday, Aug. 29, 1936.

Charles F. Kettering, native of Loudonville who has won world wide recognition as research engineer, visited Mansfield on his 60th birthday anniversary.

Lena A. Kentz and Thomas Gretten were married at St. Peter's Catholic church.

Mrs. J. Rexford Small returned home from a vacation in St. Louis, Mo.

Arthur S. Hughes was elected president of the Ohio Grotto association.

Mrs. Mary Huntsman, of Bellville, died in Eleanor Thomas hospital.

Listen World!

They Had Guts!

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

GOTTA Mother or a Dad who were kids in "the old days" when America was in the making . . . and who've been harking back to that setup ever since?

Gotta Modern Youngster who thinks that life is bounded by hot swing records and snazzy sport shirts or shorts?

Or maybe you've just got Yourself . . . cynical, disillusioned . . . "fed up with all this tripe about Americanism" . . . wondering if it's worth all this worry and fuss?

Got any or all of these combinations? Then I've found the answer they need. It's called—

"NO LIFE FOR A LADY."

Agnes Morley Cleaveland wrote it. And if ever a country needed a book, this is it.

"No Life for a Lady" is the story of a little girl who went into the Wild West when it was still—

"Wild 'n' woolly 'n' fulla fleas—
"Never been curried above the knees."

Her particular portion of the Wild West happened to be New Mexico in the days before there were any barbed wire fences, interior plumbing or sissy laws against carrying your six-shooters exposed 'n' active.

Agnes Morley's mother was a lady who had lived, with plenty of gilt trimmings, in the "deep South" until widowhood, and a far-too-trusting nature led her to entrust her heart and considerable fortune to a second husband who drawled beautifully and decamped speedily as soon as he found that the new fad for cattle ranches meant considerable real sweat.

Which left a frail, vague but immensely brave little woman and her bunch of babies alone on endless acres of New Mexican landscape, inhabited, almost exclusively, by cows, hosses, bob cats, Indians, mountain lions, coyotes and Roving Gents such as Billy the Kid and Kit Carson.

All of which sounds very romantic. And was. Only it took a number of years before that fact became apparent. In the meantime, little tads of eight and nine became accustomed to riding fifty- and six-mile chores on broncos which they broke by the simple process of sticking on . . . sleeping by the way, if need be, to an accompaniment of prowling coyotes, sobbing mountain lions or silences more terrible than either.

So Mrs. Morley's kids learned how to live . . . and helped to build New Mexico. So every foot of this land we call America was built and bought. Without benefit of "modern conveniences." Without comfort of Federal cultural plans. Without any of these bonuses and benefits which we consider so necessary to our mechanized life in 1941.

One thing, and one thing alone they had, all those bewildered men, determined woman and excited small fry who built these United States. It's not a nice word but until I get a better one I'll say, and suppose a lot of us need to hear it—

THEY HAD GUTS!

"Put a kid on a hoss!"—that was a domestic slogan in the Old West when a chore needed doing. So the kid, who was mostly somewhere around ten, was put on a hoss and before the chore was done he'd probably encountered grizzly bears, rattlers, scalp-hunting Indians, mean-eyed mavericks, horse thieves and other highly anti-social critters. Besides, chances were, sleeping out in his blankets, going without water or chow for 24 hours, and getting himself chewed full of ticks.

These weren't abnormal incidents; they were normal hazards, which all kids expected and all parents accepted. For though I grew up in a different community, my life was cast along the same lines.

So I'm saying, AMERICA NEEDS AGNES MORLEY CLEAVELAND'S BOOK. It's the right medicine for the hysteria and defeatism which is gripping us today. It's plain talk, but as colorful and salty as the cowboy gab in her own corrals.

HERE'S HOW AMERICA WAS MADE. HERE ARE THE PEOPLE WHO MADE IT. GET THAT BOOK IF YOU HAVE TO GO WITHOUT SOME LUXURY FOR THE NEXT SIX MONTHS. THEY DIDN'T KNOW WHAT LUXURY MEANT, THOSE TRAIL BREAKERS. THEY HAD THE BEST OF SUBSTITUTES—THEY HAD GUTS!

Pan American Pilots Called Upon After British Smash New Planes

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt didn't announce it, but there were two big reasons why Pan American Airways is taking over the ferrying of airplanes across the South Atlantic and up the interior of Africa to the Near East.

One reason has since been published, the need of American warplanes to help the British in Iran and thus protect Russian oil fields in the Caucasus.

The other has not been published—namely that the British had been wrecking an extraordinarily large number of brand new planes in flying them across Africa.

As a matter of cold, unpleasant fact, the British have been losing about 20 per cent of the planes we have been giving them.

This was partly because the British did not use their own pilots, but Czech, French, Poles and Dutch. These aviators, sometimes too full of sloe gin, and sometimes not too well trained in the tough job of handling fast war planes, have succeeded in scattering the wrecks over the heart of Africa.

Furthermore, central Africa is one of the most uncharted and difficult flying areas in the world. The hop across the Atlantic has not caused the casualties. It is the remainder of the flight, from Freetown on the West African coast, up to Egypt.

This is why Roosevelt finally called upon Pan American Airways to take over the African hop. Its pilots have done a brilliant job of pioneering the jungles of the Amazon and the peaks of the Andes. And Roosevelt figured that if anyone could fly over Africa, Pan American could do it.

Huey Long vs. LaFollette.

GENIAL David Lynn, architect of the Capitol, didn't realize what a hornet's nest he was poking when he ordered the statue of Robert M. LaFollette, sr., one of the showpieces of the Capitol's famed Statuary Hall, moved forward two feet.

Followers of the late Huey Long have been on Lynn's neck ever since, accusing him of trying to "hide" the statue of their hero, located next to that of LaFollette. However, what they don't know is that the man chiefly responsible for the rearrangement was not Lynn, but the famous sculptor, Jo Davidson.

Davidson executed the stone image of LaFollette in 1929 and is immensely proud of it. On a recent visit to the Capitol, he was walking through Statuary Hall with Lynn when he noticed that his work was partially hidden from view by the bronze figure of the Louisiana Kingfish.

"You can't see the profile of LaFollette when you walk in here from the Rotunda," complained Davidson. "Can't something be done about it?"

Lynn agreed with Davidson and promised to move the LaFollette statue forward two feet, placing it a half-foot in front of Huey's. Within a few hours Lynn began receiving phone calls hotly protesting the change. Several callers inquired if Long's statue had "disappeared." Lynn is politely answering all the complaints, but has no intention of rescinding his order.

Capital Chaff.

TAKING a cue from the German Stuka dive bombers, U. S. army engineers have included a powerful siren in the midget M3 tanks. Its shrill shriek freezes green troops, and the army is counting on its scare power, at a seventy mile an hour speed, to make advance breaks through enemy lines. . . . When Phil Baker opens his new Broadway show next week, he will feature a song on how to have a good time in a parked car. The song is titled, "Thanks for a lovely evening, Mr. Ickes."

Nazi Trick Backfires.

THERE is one military joke that Nazi military chiefs thought they had pulled on the Russians shortly before the June invasion, which has now backfired on them. It looks as if the Russians would have the last laugh.

Last spring and winter, when Stalin and Hitler were still friends, Berlin kept holding up to Russia the prize plum of Iran, Iraq, and a long cherished Russian outlet to the sea through the Gulf of Persia. This, Germany said, could easily be wrenched away from the British. To this end, Nazi generalissimos suggested that Russian troops be concentrated along the Iranian border ready to pounce on this lush prize.

A few months later when Hitler turned the tables and invaded Russia, there was a large Russian army isolated down in the Caucasus where it could not take part in the defense of the Ukraine. Transportation is difficult and these troops could not return. Neutral military experts who knew about the situation, thought the Germans had pulled a neat trick.

It now develops, however, that these Russian troops in the Caucasus may prove a life saver. In the first place they will be needed there to defend the vital Russian oil fields. Second, it was the presence of this powerful force which permitted the Russians to advance into Iran more quickly than the British.

Finally, this route through the Caucasus and Iran now turns out to be the chief line of communication between Russia and her new ally, Great Britain. There are only three possible means of getting British supplies into Russia: (1) Archangel and the Arctic, which in addition to being frozen, is already virtually cut off by German troops; (2) Vladivostok which can be shut off by Japan; and (3) through the Gulf of Persia and Iran.

This latter is the shortest route and the one which will be used.

It is a rough, tough route with one mountain-winding highway and no railroad. But at least there are ample Russian troops on hand to guard it—thanks to advance Nazi trickery which backfired.

Note—These troops will be especially needed if Hitler decides to invade Turkey and close in on the Caucasian oil fields from two directions.

Merry-Go-Round.

JOHN L. LEWIS is quietly intensifying his drive to control the rapidly expanding munitions industry. His latest move is to allocate $200,000 for the organization campaign and to hire 100 organizers. . . . Last spring, in order to outwit the AAA corn crop control, many mid-western farmers planted their rows 38 instead of 42 inches apart. It was an enterprising idea but in some cases costly. Because of dry weather their thickly planted corn is not doing as well as that of farmers who did not try "to beat the rap."

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK — I haven't the faintest idea who holds the record at Loew's State, but for awhile Ben Bernie held it. Loew's State is an important motion picture and vaudeville theater on Broadway, and all of the big acts and many screen personalities and band leaders like to appear there.

Once, while Bernie was headlining the State, Al Rosen, the State's manager, went backstage to see him. "Bernie," he said, "you're within $4 of the record. Why don't you buy $4 worth of tickets and break the record."

Bernie was delighted. "By all means," he cried, "by all means."

Next night, Al wandered back to where a pleased Bernie was preparing to go on and said, "Ben, you're within $20 of breaking the record again. Why don't you buy $20 worth of tickets and break it."

"By all means," cried the maestro once more. "Don't keep coming back here just to ask me . . . Buy 'em, I'll pay for 'em."

So Bernie broke the house record again.

The third night Rosen again wandered backstage but Bernie beat him to the punch . . . "Go ahead, buy all the tickets necessary . . . I want to set a real record here."

Al sank into a chair and bit off the end of one of Bernie's stogies. . . . "Well, if you insist . . . But it's raining outside, it's a bad night, and you're $480 short of the mark."

"You know sump'n," piped Ben, "setting a house record two nights running is okay, but three nights—t'ell with it."

I WAS looking at a photograph of W. C. Fields, the comedian, today—a photograph he had autographed for Hy Gardner . . . On it, Fields had written, "Hy, if I were a drinking man, I'd buy you a drink."

We got to talking about the comedian then and Hy told an interesting story — a story Fields himself had told him of a meeting he once had with the late Tex Rickard.

Fields was walking along the street one day and he ran into Tex. "W. C.," said Tex, "what are you doing these days?"

"I'm running a gambling house," Fields told him.

"W. C.," said Tex, "don't you know you can't win—that the percentages are against you . . . That if you run an honest house, you'll lose?"

"How do you figure that?" Fields wanted to know.

"This way," said Tex. "If the customer gets ahead, he can always quit. You can't."

Fields thought that over. Two weeks later, as he admitted to Hy, he closed shop.

A Farmer's Diary

A Tramp's Story

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

LAST EVENING I walked eastward along our gravel highway, then north on the back road toward the Clearfork. To the right, in an open field, stands a stack of newly threshed oats and wheat straw. At the base of this soft fragrant stack, I hoped to sit and watch for the evening star, as darkness gathered.

But before I reached the stack, I saw an old man, wrapped in a meager, dark gray blanket, had made it his sleeping quarters for the night. He greeted me and invited me to 'come on over.' As I did so, he crawled from his covering and slid down near where I stood. He was short and heavy and through his uncropped beard, I detected ruddy cheeks and a cheery smile.

"For a man who travels like me, and has no home," he explained, "a strawstack away from any buildings is the most inviting place I can find.

"Tonight I keep thinkin' about the time o' the Spanish-American war. I was a sailor—that is, I was aboard Dewey's flagship at Manila Bay. Just before the battle something happened that I've never forgot.

"A fellow who'd come aboard as a stowaway saw his coat blow overboard and jumped in after it. The lad was a good swimmer and soon had the coat again, but 'twas a terrible time to have a man overboard, with an engagement about to begin. Some sailors threw a lifeline and hauled the dripping lad up on deck, still holding to his coat, and threw him into the lockup until after the battle.

"Next day they had a trial and the boy was condemned to die for such a crime. Why, he mighta made 'em lose the battle! When the captain in a rough tone, asked if he had anything to say, the lad asked to be left alone in a room for a moment. His wish was granted and they heard him, through the partition, praying. In a few minutes which seemed longer, the boy came out and took off his wet, shabby coat and said, 'I'm ready.' The executioner led the boy away, but just then Admiral Dewey came along and inquired why he had done it.

"Slowly the young man reached down into the pocket of the coat he had almost lost and brought out a tintype of a lovely woman. 'My mother is dead,' he sobbed, 'and this is her last picture.'

"'Bring the boy to my room'," said Admiral Dewey. 'Any boy who would die to rescue his mother's picture must have some good in him!'

"So that is what you were thinking of, out here on the stack at night?" I said, as I turned to go.

Without a word, the old man reached into the deep left pocket of his old shirt and brought out a tintype, wrapped in soiled cloth.

"I still have the picture," he muttered. "You understand?"

AREN'T YOU GLAD?

YOU can listen to your own radio ...at any time you wish...and to anyone you wish...because there's

PLENTY OF POWER for Defense and for Homes

It's a great country . . . our America. There is no ban here on the use of radios. You don't have to be afraid of using your radio because someone might object to whom you are listening. Nor do you have to limit the use of your radio because there's not enough electricity to operate it. For in the territories served by The Ohio Public Service Company there is plenty of electric power to meet the requirements of the plants working on defense . . . and there is plenty of electric power to operate your radio, and all the other electrical appliances you wish to use in your home at any time you wish and for as long as you wish. From our own huge generating plants and our inter-connections we are ready and able, instantly, to supply much more electric power than we have as yet ever been called on to provide. So there's no need to deny yourself any of the pleasures of electrical living. You can use all the electric lights you need for eyesight protection, you can use all the electrical appliances you wish to save you time, labor, and, in many cases, money, and, thank goodness, you can use your radio all you wish because you live in a free country and in a territory where there is plenty of electric power for defense and for homes.

CHAPTER XVII

Dr. Ezra Malcolm was the head of Channing Hospital. Curt asked Gay and Cherry to wait for him in the reception room on the fourteenth floor, and left abruptly. A few minutes later he was in Dr. Malcolm's office.

"Miss Lind is my fiance," he told the well known doctor. "I want to assume all financial responsibility. Everything possible must be done for her. Money is not to be considered. If equipment is needed, get it. If specialists of any sort be needed, get them."

Dr. Malcolm nodded gravely: "Very well. I must tell you, she is very severely injured. We will do what we can, you may be sure. Miss Lind may be injured internally. Her right leg is in very bad shape."

Curt De Witt grasped the arms of his chair for support.

"You must save her," he said huskily.

When Curt went out the door a little later Dr. Malcolm reached for the telephone and sent word to the doctor in charge of the operating room that Miss Lind was to have anything needed, regardless of whether it had to be sent from the other side of the world. Cost was not to be considered.

He had just finished his conversation when there was a knock on the door and Curt returned.

"Whom do you consider the best doctor in the United States in a case of this kind?" Curt asked.

"Halling of Boston," Dr. Malcolm said without hesitation.

"Get him," Curt said briskly. "And his entire staff if he wants to bring them along. Let me know in the reception room on the fourteenth floor when you've contacted him."

Fifteen minutes later Curt received word that Dr. Halling would leave Boston at once. Dr. Malcolm told Curt that Miss Lind was out of the operating room and had been placed in an oxygen tent. They might see her for a moment, although she was unconscious and would be for some time.

Curt, Gay and Cherry were taken to a large pleasant room high up in the hospital where two doctors and a young blond nurse stood beside April's oxygen tent. She was so swathed in bandages they could not see her face, they gazed at the still figure for a short while, the two girls sobbing softly, and then the nurse told them gently they had better go back to the reception room.

Drusilla Bayne and Hill were coming out of a night club in the early morning hours when Hill stopped at a news stand for a paper. He was reaching for change when his eye fell upon a picture of April on the front page of a tabloid. Startled, he picked it up and read the caption:

"Miss April Lind, Radio Star, Who Was Injured, Perhaps Fatally in an Automobile Accident Last Night. She Was Rushed to Channing Hospital, Where It Is Believed She May Be Dying."

Dru saw Hill stiffen and his face turn ashen. She said quickly:

"What's wrong, darling?"

Hill said stunned: "It's April. She's been in an accident. I must go to the hospital."

Dru put a hand on his arm: "No," she said petulantly, "You'll do nothing of the kind. You can telephone and see how she is."

Hill took her hand from his arm almost rudely: "Of course I'll go. Do you think I'm a wooden Indian? April may be dying."

Dru's car stood at the curb. Hill said to the chauffeur:

"See that Miss Bayne gets home safely, Toto. I'm taking a cab."

Unceremoniously he turned on his heel and signalled a taxi. Dru said furiously:

"We'll settle this later. I won't have it!"

Hill did not even hear her. In a few moments he was running up the steps of Channing Hospital. The operator at the desk told Hill that if he was a relative, there were other members of the family in the reception room on the fourteenth floor. He could get his information regarding Miss Lind there.

Fortunately Curt was not with Cherry and Gay when Hill arrived. He was with Dr. Malcolm making further arrangements for April's care. It was Cherry who looked up first and saw Hill standing in the doorway. She got up quickly and the expression on her face caused Gay to turn in her chair.

Cherry's face was mottled with tears, her small mouth forming an oval of surprise. Her lips twisted disdainfully.

"Well, look who's here," she said with scorn.

Gay got her bearings quickly, and put a restraining hand on Cherry's arm: "Hello, Hill," she tried to smile.

Hill's face was drained of all color. His eyes held a stunned look that stirred Gay's immediate sympathy. Hill asked almost in a whisper:

"April—how is she?" He looked as though he might faint.

Gay crossed the room and took his arm:

"Sit down here a minute," she led him to a divan. "The doctor has her in an oxygen tent. We'll have to wait for news. Everything possible is being done."

Hill obediently sat down with Gay. Cherry still stood staring at him sullenly.

"What do you care how she is?" she flung at him defiantly. "It's none of your business."

Hill recoiled from her scorn, but said nothing. Gay spoke up crossly:

"Stop it, Cherry! This is no time for quarreling. Why shouldn't Hill come to the hospital to see how April is?"

Cherry's eyes flashed. "Because he hasn't any right! What has he ever done for my sister? Why should be come around here now? Has he ever taken care of her? He has not! And he hasn't seen his own son in months."

"Cherry!" Gay warned. "That's enough."

But Cherry, unheeding, shouted at Hill:

"You can just get out of here! Get out! She wouldn't want you. She's engaged to somebody else. You've no right. I hate you, oh, I hate you!"

When she ended she was almost in hysterics. Gay got up:

"Go down the hall and wait for me a minute, Hill. I'll be right with you. Don't go away."

Dazed with Cherry's outbreak and the storm of emotions going on in his own heart Hill got up with an effort and backed out of the room. Cherry stood staring after him with clinched fists, weeping wildly.

"Sit down and calm yourself," Gay pushed her gently back into her chair. "This is no time to take your temper out on Hill. I know how you feel. But April wouldn't want you to treat Hill that way. Now calm yourself and try to act like a lady."

Pat came rushing into the reception room at that moment. Gay sighed with relief.

"Take care of her, Pat," she said hurriedly. "I must go to Hill. I'll be back later."

Hill stood leaning against the wall in the corridor when Gay went outside. She said soothingly: "Let's find another place where we can talk, Hill. There are some things I want to say to you. Some things I think you should know."

A little later in another waiting room Gay and Hill sat facing each other and Hill said with an effort:

"Well, come on, Gay. It's your turn to let me have it now."

Gay smiled sadly: "I don't feel like letting you have it, Hill. This is no time for us to quarrel. After all, what has happened between you and April is your business. Not mine. You and I are old friends too."

"Still friends, Gay?" his lips tried to form a smile.

Gay nodded, tears gathering in her eyes.

"Still friends, Hill. I don't approve of a lot of things you've done. But I don't hate you."

"Thanks. You always were a swell gal. But I'm afraid I don't deserve your generosity."

"That remains to be seen," Gay twisted her hands in her lap. "I want you to make a promise to me you may not want to make."

Hill lit a cigaret with trembling hands: "Let's have it."

"Promise me," Gay leaned forward, "that if April lives through this terrible accident, you will stay out of her life as you have done since the divorce. That you won't let this make any difference."

Hill's jaw hardened: "Why should you ask that?"

"Because," Gay drew a sharp breath, "she is engaged to marry someone else."

Hill dropped his eyes before her worried, pleading look. "Is it De Witt?"

"Yes," Gay nodded. "It's Curt. He loves her, Hill. And he'll be a good husband and father. You never have been. He's a fine person. A strong, dependable man who will never let April down. If you've ever loved her, you must stay out of her life and let Curt De Witt take care of her."

Hill asked very low: "Does she love him?"

Gay hesitated, then said truthfully: "Not the way she loved you, perhaps. But she is very fond of him. Promise, Hill. Promise you'll stay away and let April find happiness with Curt."

* * *

When he remained silent, staring at the floor with eyes that looked as though they might be filled with tears Gay said:

"Curt has taken complete charge here at the hospital. He is moving heaven and earth to get everything possible to save April's life. He has even sent to Boston for a staff of specialists—and"

Gay looked up, confused. Curt De Witt stood in the doorway. The two men stared at each other whitely.

WORK STARTED ON DOG POUND

County Employes Building $1,500 Brick Structure; Finish It In 30 Days.

Work was under way today on the county's new dog pound near the city sewage disposal plant off U. S. Route 30 just east of the city limits.

Unsuccessful in their attempts to get National Youth administration help on the project, the commissioners employed workers to erect the brick structure. The building will cost approximately $1,500 and will be completed in 30 days, commissioners said.

The county pound is being built on city property which was leased to the county for a 10-year period. Federal aid for the structure had been refused previously because the commissioners were unable to obtain a lease for more than one year on a site.

Commissioners sought a site at the fairground near the present pound, but the fair board would grant them only a short time lease on the location, not enough to satisfy the demands of the federal government.

The new building will replace an old structure at the fairground which has been used by the county for several years. H. J. Brumenshenkel, Mansfield, is the architect on the project.

MARRIED 70 YEARS

PITTSBURGH—(U.P.)—David and Elizabeth Reeder attribute their 70 years of married life without a quarrel to the fact that they observed the Golden Rule. But Reeder, who is 91, fears their record may not last.

Now is the Time to Buy New Clothes

Wool and woolen fabrics are vitally necessary materials in the National Defense Program. While no real shortage exists, large quantities are in constant demand for uniforms and other military equipment . . . and prices are definitely on the rise.

Under the circumstances, we take pleasure in announcing that the first Fall suits, topcoats and overcoats have arrived . . . and that our prices are still the same as last year . . . $22.50 for the Standard Quality Line . . . $27.50 for Super Quality Clothes.

From every standpoint, now is the time to buy your new clothes for Fall.

DRIVE OUT BOWEL WORMS

Before they cause Trouble

Your children — and you, too — may have roundworms without even knowing it. And these pests, living inside the body, can cause real trouble. Watch for these warning signs: fidgeting, uneasy stomach, itchy nose and seat, nervousness, paleness.

If you even suspect roundworms, get Jayne's Vermifuge right away! Jayne's is America's leading proprietary worm medicine. Scientifically tested and used by millions for over a century. It acts very gently. Expels stubborn large worms without "dynamiting." If no worms are there, it is just a mild laxative. Demand Jayne's Vermifuge.

THEATERS

Air Thriller.

"Dive Bomber," technicolor saga of the U. S. Navy's super pilots, opening Saturday at the Ohio is built upon an entirely new premise, the flight surgeons specializing in lessening the physical hazards of dive bomber pilots. Starring Errol Flynn and Fred MacMurray the picture introduces Alexis Smith, a blond newcomer whose dramatic talents and photogenic qualities have rocketed her to a lead in one of the season's big productions. Before filming the picture Michael Curtiz visited the Wright Field in Dayton and other aerial laboratories for background. The supporting cast includes Ralph Bellamy, and Robert Armstrong.

Broadway Comedy.

That bouncing Broadway comedy, "Kiss the Boys Goodbye," comes to the Madison screen in film form Saturday with a cast headed by Don Ameche, Mary Martin and that musical know-it-all, Oscar Levant of "Information Please." Victor Schertzinger not only directed but wrote the music for Frank Loesser's lyrics. The story concerns a beautiful southern chorine who can't get a break on Broadway until she is "discovered" in the south. Connie Boswell, Jack Benny's Rochester, Barbara Allen, the "Vera Vague" of radio, and Raymond Walburn are in the cast. "Highway West," with Brenda Marshall and Arthur Kennedy is the second attraction.

Dramatic Story.

Lubitsch Comedy.

Everybody takes a sock at everybody else in "That Uncertain Feeling," Ernst Lubitsch comedy showing at the Park with Melvyn Douglas and Merle Oberon in the leading roles. The comedy battle starts when a happily married couple discover through a psychoanalyst that they have no right to such bliss A wild-haired pianist doesn't help matters along although Merle Oberon as the wife believes he may remove the curse of the psychoanalyst. Alan Mowbray plays the latter role and Burgess Meredith plays the part of the pianist.

BASEBALL STOLEN

PASADENA, Cal.—(U P)—Nurse Mrs. Lucille Karp values at $100 a baseball given to her by the Chicago White Sox and which bore the autographs of members of the team. It was stolen from her apartment and that was the value she listed in her claim to the police

IRAN CAMPAIGN HINTS CAUSE OF WAVELL SHIFT

General 'Kicked Upstairs' as Part of Britain's Giant Empire Strategy.

By PAUL K. LEE
(Associated Press Cable Staff)

When General Sir Archibald P. Wavell was transferred suddenly on July 2 from Britain's Middle East command to India, there was widespread talk that this most successful British general had been kicked upstairs.

Now, eight weeks later, the transfer had fallen snugly into place like a curiously-shaped piece in a great jigsaw puzzle, filling out an important segment in the panorama of the war and of British grand strategy.

With Wavell in command of the British forces, the British-Russian thrust against Iran appears to have been a complete success.

It seems virtually certain that a secure route for British and American material aid for Russia in her war with Germany, and possibly for British troops as well, is to be opened up across Iran to Russia's Caspian Sea and Caucasus areas.

At the time of his transfer, Wavell was the subject of considerable gossip to the effect that he was in semi-disgrace because his sweep into Libsa was followed by reverses from German-reinforced Axis troops and Australian criticism of the Greek and Crete campaigns.

By declining to give the house of commons an explanation, British Prime Minister Churchill let Wavell "tak it," so to speak, and the general himself kept silent.

The fact that his Indian command is handling the Iranian situation appears to be both an explanation of the past and a tipoff of the future.

The oil of Iran makes that ancient kingdom a worthy prize in itself, but Iran alone could have been taken care of by the Middle East command.

The implication is that much of the material aid for Russia, and possible military aid as well, will come from India.

The British press admits that the ouster of Germans from Iran is secondary objective, even though it was the stated reason for Sunday's invasion.

The main reasons admittedly are to establish a supply route to Russia and to safeguard India from the Nazi threat of which Churchill has warned.

Wavell, who spent five years in India as a young officer of the Black Watch, obviously was chosen for the job well in advance, being assigned to it as soon as the German invasion of Russia made Churchill's predictions appear even more ominous.

Wavell served also in the Caucasus with a military mission in the World war.

Whether the United States had any foreknowledge of British intentions with regard to Iran is a matter of pure speculation, but she apparently was alive to the possibilities of the situation. On July 25 it was announced that Lieut. Col. W. P. Draper and Lieut. V. H. Sutro had arrived in India as U. S. military observers.

As an arsenal and troop reservoir for Britain, India has been active already. Details are closely guarded secrets, but British sources say India's war effort is increasing every day.

The trend seems to confirm what Adolf Hitler wrote 17 years ago in "Mein Kampf"—that India is the keystone of the British empire and that Britain could not and would not let go there without "risking her last drop of blood."

Churchill has said that a Nazi victory over Russia would be "only a stepping stone to India." A glance at the map will indicate that loss of India might well prove disastrous to Britain, for India is strategically situated to maintain contact wth Malaya, Australia and New Zealand, Egypt and South Africa.

GOES TO PARLEY

General Hospital Head to Join In Defense Study.

Planning to study ways to prepare hospitals for national emergency, Dr. A. O. Fonkalsrud, director of General hospital, will attend the 43rd annual American hospital association convention in Atlantic City from Sept. 15 to 19.

In Atlantic City he will join more than 4,000 other hospital delegates and attend some of the more than 40 sessions devoted to hospital operation.

Protection of hospitals against air raids, sabotage and other possible disasters arising from war and unsettled world conditions will be reported upon by one of the committees at the meeting, the hospital director said.

4 LEAVE FOR NAVY TRAINING

Four youths from the Mansfield area left to join the U. S. navy yesterday, Charles Sholtz, naval recruiting officer in the post office, reported today.

Of the four, two joined the naval reserve and the other two joined the regular navy. After taking the oath of allegiance at Cleveland they will all leave for Great Lakes, Ill., to receive primary military training.

Howard E. Duffy, 17, of Mansfield R. D. 3 and Harry L. Ball, 17, of Ashland R. D. 4 joined the regular navy while Robert E. Hoffman, 17, of Crestline and Garland Nolen, 21, of Crestline, joined the naval reserve.

After primary training Hoffman will be sent to an electrical training school and Nolen will attend a clerical school, Sholtz said.

Found! Brenda's Successor

Faced with the necessity of finding a replacement for Brenda Frazier, who automatically relinquished her long-held position as cafe society's "Glamor Girl No. 1" by assuming the new title of Mrs. John "Shipwreck" Kelly, debutantes and society boys met at New York's Stork club and chose Miss Betty Cordon as the "Glamor Girl of 1941-42." To the accompaniment of popping flash bulbs, the 18-year-old daughter of a prominent banker assured newsmen that (1) "I'm very excited;" (2) "I didn't expect it;" (3) "I do not think I am the glamor type."

Colony Club Members Meet For Program

Mrs. Dean Dickerson Entertains Group at Her Home.

HIGHLIGHT meeting of the summer for Colony club members was held yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Dean Dickerson, Chevy Chase road. Mrs. James Keith was the associate hostess. The program was presented by Mrs. Gradin Godley, who reviewed the book, "A Yankee Doctor in Paradise" by Lambert.

Twenty-eight were in attendance and a new member, Mrs. H. Shaffer of New York City, was welcomed. Mrs. John Daley of the League of Women Voters was also a guest present and spoke on the work of the league.

A brief business session was in charge of the president, Mrs. F. R. Thaler, at which time plans for the fall program were discussed. It was decided to hold a dinner dance sometime in September and a Halloween party in October. Husbands will be guests for these two social functions.

The next meeting of the club will take place Sept. 11 at the Mansfield-Leland hotel when Mrs. J. P. Donohoe and Mrs. J. N. Ritter will be hostesses. A dessert-luncheon will be served at 1:30 o'clock after which the members will sew for the Red Cross. At the close of the meeting yesterday the hostesses served refreshments. Fall flowers decorated the home.

Publicity Committee Has First Meeting

Members of the publicity committee of the Women of the Moose held their first meeting Thursday afternoon at the home of the committee chairman, Mrs. Hazel Altman, 266 South Diamond street. During the business session, Mrs. Emma Fisher was elected treasurer.

Bridge was the diversion of the afternoon. Prizes were won by Mrs. Margaret Daugherty and Miss Laura Maser. Two guests, Mrs. Daugherty and Miss Ruth Roesch, senior regent of the Women of the Moose, were in attendance. Luncheon was served at the close of the meeting at a long table decorated with scarlet and white appointments and garden flowers in contrasting shades.

SORORITY MEETING.

Sigma Kappa Gamma sorority members met in regular session Thursday evening at the home of Miss Dorothy Blackstone, Bartley avenue. Associate hostess was Miss Marjorie Zimmerman. Miss Dorothy Kelly, president, conducted the short business session. The evening was then spent socially. Mrs. Richard James and Miss Jeanne Scott will be hostesses for the next meeting, Sept. 11, which will be held at the home of Mrs. Hubert James, Crescent road. A shower for Miss Dorothy Leach, bride-elect of William F. Hoffman, will be given at this meeting.

SUB-DEB CLUB.

Sub-Deb club members held their semi-monthly meeting Thursday evening at the home of Miss Elsie Marie Blank, 319 Fourth avenue. Bingo games and dancing were diversions of the evening. Prizes were won by Miss Ann Mayer, Miss Eleanne Frey and Miss Norma Conroy. Miss Conroy will entertain the club at her home on Dickson avenue Sept. 11.

Leaves for School

Miss Jean Sebring, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry M. Sebring, 34 Wellington avenue, is leaving tomorrow morning for Green Bay, Wis., where she will spend the winter as a student at St. Joseph's Academy for Girls. Miss Sebring attended Mansfield Senior high school last year as a junior student.

Mifflin Home Scene of Club Party Thursday

Mrs. Gregg Bracken, Mifflin, entertained members of the Buena Vista Community club at her home Thursday evening. Eleven members and ten guests, Mrs. Charles Brindle and children, Mrs. Walter Brindle, Mrs. Lloyd Koogle and children and Mrs. Stanley Bracken and children, were in attendance.

Mrs. Jack Francis, second vice president, conducted the business session. Contests were played and prizes won by Mrs. Francis, Mrs. Charles Simpson and Mrs. Gerald Dudley. Luncheon was served buffet style at the close of the evening from a long table decorated with patriotic appointments and garden flowers.

Plans were made to hold a covered-dish dinner Sept. 2 at 6:30 p. m. at the Mifflin Township Community house. Mrs. James T. Reed, Cuder road, will entertain the club at her home Sept. 25. Mrs. Dudley is in charge of arrangements for the covered-dish dinner.

ENTERTAINS THURSDAY.

Mrs. Guy Weirick entertained members of the Knotty club at the Colonial Guest House Thursday evening. Five hundred was the diversion of the evening. Prizes were won by Mrs. Bryan Snyder, Mrs. Tony Schultz and Mrs. Harry Roberts. Luncheon was served at the close of the evening at a long table decorated with garden flowers. Mrs. Schultz, 404 Newman street, will entertain the club at her home Sept. 25.

JOLLY LOT CLUB.

Mrs. Bernard Hout, North Adams street, entertained members of the Jolly Lot club at her home Wednesday afternoon. She was assisted by Mrs. Guy Ferguson. Games were the diversions with prizes being won by Mrs. S. C. Theaker, Mrs. Roy McCartney and Mrs. Flora Beattie. At the close of the games refreshments were served. The next meeting will be held Sept. 24 at the home of Mrs. McCartney, 375 Fifth avenue.

Busy Bee Club Meets Thursday

Mrs. George Bistline, Buckingham street, entertained members of the Busy Bee club at her home Thursday evening. Mrs. Lial Ish served as associate hostess. One guest, Mrs. Carl Bistline, was in attendance. Mrs. Mary Diesem, president, conducted the business session.

Bunco was the diversion of the evening. Prizes were won by Mrs. Mary Somers, Mrs. Clara Calver and Mrs. Charles Wingert. Mrs. Carl Bistline was presented with the guest prize. A two-course luncheon was served at small tables decorated with garden flowers. Mrs. Earl Black, Woodland road, will entertain the club at her home Sept. 12. Mrs. Somers will serve as associate hostess.

ELECT OFFICERS.

Mrs. W. C. Cales was elected president of Division A of the United Brethren church when the group met Wednesday at the church parlors. Others to assume similar duties for the coming season include Mrs. P. E. Swihart, vice president; Mrs. J. P. Keller, secretary, and Mrs. Josephine Beamer, treasurer. Devotions yesterday were in charge of Mrs. Cales and Mrs. J. E. Etzwiler. The remainder of the time was spent socially. The next meeting will be held Sept. 24 at the home of Mrs. R. C. Johnson, Lawn avenue.

TAKE HAY RIDE.

Members of the Rainbow Girls and the Demolay Boys and their guests enjoyed a hay ride Wednesday evening at the Yoha farm on the South Main street road. Mary Jane Frost was general chairman of the party and in charge of all arrangements. After a two-hour ride over the countryside a wiener roast was held. Dancing was also enjoyed during the evening. Rehearsal for the Wednesday meeting of the Rainbow Girls, which will be initiation of members and election of officers, will be held Saturday at 2 p. m. at the K. of P. hall.

Post-Nuptial Party Given for Mrs. Swigart

Mrs. J. P. Folmer and Daughter Fete Recent Bride Thursday.

THE first in a series of post-nuptial parties honoring Mrs. Paul Swigart, the former Wilma Folmer, was given Thursday evening at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. J. P. Folmer, 205 South Main street. Miss Pauline Folmer, sister of the honoree, was the associate hostess. Twenty aunts and cousins were in attendance and presented Mrs. Swigart with many lovely gifts. The hostesses gave her a blanket.

Games were the diversion of the evening with prizes being won by Mrs. N. J. Wilhelm, sr., Miss Irene Wilhelm, Mrs. Joseph Mutsch, Mrs. John Enderle, sr., Mrs. M. J. Vogel, Miss Mary Vogel and the honoree. The other winners presented their gifts to Mrs. Swigart.

Late in the evening a luncheon was served buffet style from a table centered with garden flowers. The color scheme used for the appointments was in yellow, green and white.

Wedding Held In Oberlin of Interest Here

Of interest here is the announcement of the wedding of Miss Helen Jamcson Bovard and William Dennis White, both of Akron. The young couple was married on Friday, Aug. 22 at the Fairchild chapel at Oberlin college. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Gates Bovard of Akron and the niece of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Bovard, Woodhill road, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Jameson, Blymyer avenue. Mrs. Bovard was a former Mansfielder.

The quiet service was solemnized by Dr. Thomas Graham, dean of Oberlin Theological Seminary and nuptial music was played by Dr. Bruce Davis, director of organ music at the college. Mr. and Mrs. White were unattended for their nuptials. After the wedding a small reception was held at the Oberlin Inn and the young couple left for a trip to Yellowstone National park. Upon their return they will reside at Cuyahoga Falls.

Good Manners Important At Army Camps

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Good manners, even old-fashioned good manners, will see all of us through a good many places. But nowhere is it as well to pack good manners along than when visiting a boy friend at an Army post.

Don't be too noisy. Don't go poking in places you're not supposed to inspect. Granted that you're acquainted with a young officer, don't hail a man of inferior rank and introduce him to an officer. It will be an uncomfortable few minutes for them both. Above all things, do not bring the boy friend a gift unless you know it comes within the regulations.

A letter from a selectee in camp tells of a girl who visited him at the post, bringing all her 57 varieties of doing exactly as she pleases. This didn't go down well at all. She arrived bearing a gift which she insisted on displaying to some of the bunch. Of all things, the gift was a pair of green silk pajamas, and did the poor rookie get a razzing!

Let it be said here and now, in case any other girl has a similar streak of misplaced generosity, that soldiers never wear pajamas. Uncle Sam gives the soldier boy $85 worth of clothes, but never a pair of pajamas in the outfit. He gets no fancy night shirts or lounging robes.

Also, this young lady went to the camp all by herself, though she wasn't, engaged to the boy. In fact, there was another young lady, nearer and dearer, who came to the camp with her mother. The doughboy was scared half out of his skin, thinking that Girl No. 1 may hear about Girl No. 2 and the green silk pajamas.

If you're engaged to a draftee, or have a brother, cousin, or boy friend in camp, remember that training soldiers is a serious business, not to be disrupted by girls who don't understand Army discipline. It's the wrong road to popularity to try to make a soldier depart from the smallest regulation. Leave the post at least five minutes before the time you're supposed to be off the reservation. Give the lad a chance to settle down after you've removed your glamorous presence.

If he insists on escorting you to the entrance of the post, don't linger over the farewells if he has only a few minutes. His top sergeant is not open to any such arguments as "Parting is such sweet sorrow, that I shall say goodnight 'till it be morrow."

You may think it would be nice to take along your candid camera and snap pictures. But as picture-taking is almost universally prohibited around posts, it would be embarrassing for you to have your camera confiscated and your roll of film destroyed.

And so, my dear girls, while you may have been glorying in your independence and having cast aside the Victorian rules of your mother's day, it's just as well to shake these old-fashioned taboos out of your mental mothballs and take them along when you visit an Army post.

HOROSCOPE

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Saturday, Aug. 30.

High tension and aggression may mark this day, judging by very active planetary operations. Although things may move under energetic and strenuous force, with important projects and high ambitions at stake, yet an exaggerated or rash measure of initiative and attack might end disastrously. Deliberation, cool judgment, practical methods and a conservative use of funds as well as force would prove lucrative. Beware entangling alliances and duplicity.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year in which all matters may move at high tempo, and into currents of success and prosperity if they are manipulated with calm and restrained consideration and not tempest, impetuosity, strife and wild urges, and also with some conservation and sanity in use of funds as well as energies.

A child born on this day should have much energy, initiative and ambition which properly developed and restrained might bring fine success.

Tomorrow's Problem.

BABY ACCESSORIES PATTERN 2942

Any part of this set easily knitted in Shetland Floss makes an acceptable gift for that new baby. And how welcome it would be as a donation for War Relief. Pattern 2942 contains directions for cap, jacket, bootees and coverlet; illustrations of them and stitches; materials required.

Send ten cents in coin for this pattern to The Mansfield News-Journal, Needlecraft Department, 82 Eighth avenue, New York, N. Y. Write plainly pattern number, your name and address.

That "good little dark dress" so indispensable for this time of year—here it is in a distinctive Marian Martin style Pattern 9787 has the smart newsy notes of the season, yet it's simple to make with its accompanying Sew Chart. The squared yokes enhance the style of the high-cut, dart-trimmed neckline. Those same darts, together with gathers above the waist, hold in the nice bodice softness. The slim, straight lines of the skirt are emphasized by double front panels and a single back panel. Let your sleeves be very long and full, long and straight, or have simple puffed sleeves. For a color "lift," you might make the front tie ends of the belt in vivid ribbon.

Pattern 9787 may be ordered only in misses' and women's sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 requires 3⅝ yards 39 inch fabric and 1 yard ribbon.

Send fifteen cents in coins for this Marian Martin pattern. Be sure to write plainly your size, name, address, and style number.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

"I am seeing a ghost, Mary," I said, shivering a bit as my eyes went over the paper with the cabalistic characters, which she had taken from Stephen Redfield without his knowledge.

The two others, apparently blank, I had laid aside, although my experience told me that there was a strong probability they carried writing in invisible ink.

Like a Blow to Madge.

But the one sheet of paper with its characters—"like Chinese," as Mary had said—was like a blow in the face to me.

It was not possible, I thought—this fantastic theory that had come to me. It was like a message from the dead.

With sudden resolution I took the sheet, walked to my bag, unlocked my letter portfolio concealed the paper at the back and locked it up again.

"Mary, dear," I said, turning to my niece, who was watching me with wide, wondering eyes, "I am going to ask a great favor of you."

"You know that I will do anything you ask of me anything," she said with emphasis.

"Thank you, darling. What I want you to do is to forget that you have seen this one page until I give you permission to speak about it. When you repeat to my father the story you have just told me, as you will when he arrives, I want you to give him the impression that the two blank sheets were all that you managed to secrete.

"It is very important that he does not suspect now that there were any queer characters. Later on, I shall show this to him myself, but it is imperative that I keep this piece of paper to myself now. When I can, I will explain it all to you."

"Do you think I need any explanation of anything you may choose to do?" she asked, with a loyalty that "warmed the cockles of my heart." "I'm starting to forget now. I never saw any characters. Everything was blank paper before my eyes."

I laughed at her nonsense.

"That's better," she said. "I don't know what this is all about, but it isn't on the free list for you to be all white and jittery."

"I haven't time to tell you all about it now," I told her. "I've just time to add one link to the chain you've brought me. But first please hand me that book you've compiled on Redfield's doings. I'll just lock it away with those sheets of paper until my father arrives."

She rose, opened the over-night bag she had brought with her, and took from it a small bundle of closely-written sheets of paper and handed it to me.

I did not even glance at it. My father would do all the studying of it that was necessary, and as I locked it into my bag, and secreted the key, I drew a long breath, as if I had finished a large race. With one more message to Mary, I was now free until my father should arrive.

"Here is something else you are to keep to yourself until I give you permission to repeat it," I said. "But I think you should know that I saw a very strong resemblance between Stephen Redfield and the gangster who tried to take Marion's letter to Ronald away from me on the train."

Her eyes widened and flamed with excitement.

"Do you mean he's the same one I saw that day in the restaurant—the one who gave Steve the envelope of papers?" she asked.

Coiffure and Millinery In Harmony

By MME. QUI VIVE

During the present reign of cuckoo hats many women seem to have lost sight of the fact that chapeau and hairdo should have some sort of a bond, live in peace with each other. It's to one's credit to be a bit old-fashioned—to seek a becoming combination. It has a lot to do with flattering the features, bringing out the best points of the complexion, and it gives a woman snap and flare.

Tragedy puts its ugly lines on the face of a woman who, after finding a heavenly coiffure that suits her swell, buys a hat that she believes was made for her, only to discover that the two won't have a thing to do with each other. Her impulse is to tear her hair and stamp on the hat. What she does is to mark her purchase up to profit and loss, get another bonnet that makes friends with her coiffure.

With all the beautifying that is going on, no one detail is as important as the coiffure, and certainly no part of dress makes or unmakes a woman as does a hat. They are matters with which no woman can afford to be casual. Men admire a smart hair-dress and, believe it or curl up your nose, they hate freak millinery.

A long, lanky bob with a hat of narrow, pointed crown form an atrocious combination. If the girl is thin she looks as if she had been drawn through a knothole. The floor mop arrangement with a muffin hat perched over one eye is equally out of order. One must aim for harmony of line and proportion; without them good looks are impossible.

The tilt of the hat tells its own story. Miss Frivolous hangs hers on her left eyebrow. If she loses it, it won't matter much; it is such a little bit of a thing. The serious-minded, austere woman planks her severe lid squarely on the crown of her head, which tells the world it had better not get fresh with her. And each one of these types has a hair dress that advertises and accentuates her character.

The sophisticated woman, the one with plenty of dress oomph can get away with freak bonnets and the skun back hairdress. She isn't seeking softening effects because they would throw her out of form. She's interesting to look at, but sometimes she seems a bit brittle.

The halo hat is still with us, and suits the waved pompadour. We refer you to Ginger Rogers and Katharine Hepburn, who favor that team up. The pompadour-and-rolls combinations make for a personality coiffure—one can roll one's own and attain marvelous effects, but it is a bit difficult to find bonnets that don't slap 'em down.

Well, this is every woman's individual problem. If she has good taste and the dress sense she will make no mistakes.

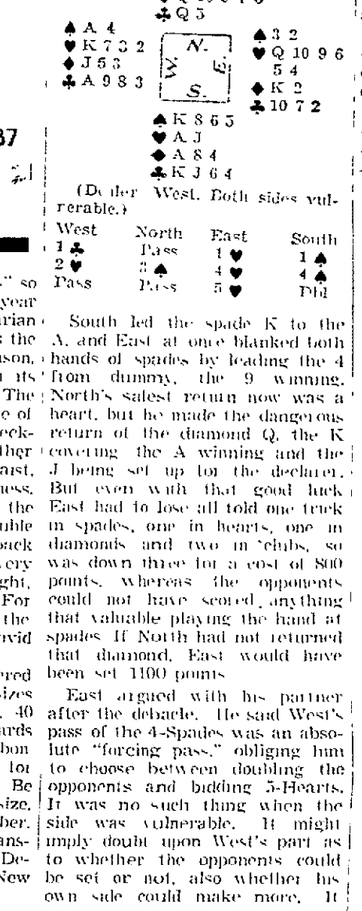
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

by Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

WHY "VULNERABLE?"

After adjusting the scoring as they did, the lawmakers knew what they were about when they chose the word "vulnerable" to describe the condition of a pair which has won a game. You can argue all you want and truthfully—that vulnerable is a good way to be. But that is only if you know how to watch your step. It is a time to beware of giving the opponents juicy chances to double you either with doubtful bids or informative doubles at low levels or with sacrifices at high levels. A call which might be excellent bridge if you are not vulnerable can be very disastrous when you have to take the greater penalties which go with vulnerability.



(Dealer West. Both sides vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
1 ♣	Pass	1 ♥	1 ♠
2 ♥	3 ♠	4 ♥	4 ♠
Pass	Pass	5 ♥	Dbl

South led the spade K to the A, and East at once blanked both hands of spades by leading the 4 from dummy, the 9 winning. North's safest return now was a heart, but he made the dangerous return of the diamond Q, the K covering the A winning and the J being set up for the declarer. But even with that good luck East had to lose all told one trick in spades, one in hearts, one in diamonds and two in clubs, so was down three for a cost of 800 points, whereas the opponents could not have scored anything that valuable playing the hand at spades. If North had not returned that diamond, East would have been set 1100 points.

East argued with his partner after the debacle. He said West's pass of the 4-Spades was an absolute "forcing pass," obliging him to choose between doubling the opponents and bidding 5-Hearts. It was no such thing when the side was vulnerable. It might imply doubt upon West's part as to whether the opponents could be set or not, also whether his own side could make more. It was up to East to bid his cards, with vulnerability the way it was.

Example May Make Child Rude

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

One day, some years ago, when my youngest lad was about nine, he and I went shopping. He stopped at the drug store and I continued toward the grocer's. He soon came rushing in to me with, "Dad, if I had 20 more cents to put with my nickel I could buy a magazine." Hardly had he finished when I said, 'You have a dirty face.' And so he had. But his question should have been answered first. Discovering my mistake I quickly made apology.

Unintentionally Rude.

I did not mean to be so rude. I merely acted as my native impulses prompted me. My concern about adult conventions made me callous to the courtesy I owed my son.

In the Modern Parent I wrote: "The child of three is sitting at the fireside with his parents. He begins to tell about the adventures of his imaginary companions. On and on he goes in great enthusiasm. His parents seem to be listening. His mother's eyes are riveted upon his eyes. When the child has almost reached the climax of his story the mother says: 'Come here, dear, and let me see your eye. I never noticed that little spot on your eyelid before. Daddy, it must be a mole.' Father is concerned and they begin to talk about the mole. If they had even heard what the boy said it is forgotten.

Child's Disappointment.

"How disappointed the child is! He had felt that this one time his parents really were listening to his story and were enjoying it with him. Now he knows that the most important thing to him in all the world is of less importance than a spot upon his eye.

"Poor child! He can do nothing about it. They are his parents; they are so big and strong and wonderful, and they know so much. He is weak and small and unimportant, and he knows so little.

"We parents tend to answer the questions directed to the child and when he is engaged in conversation with an adult we may butt in and steal his words. An adolescent girl said that she never knew the time when she was allowed to complete a sentence at home.

"We parents assume we can answer for our children better than they can. Then we know children are pretty honest! They might tell what is so; we can touch it up so as to put the family in good light.

"For the same reasons some husbands speak and answer for their wives, and some wives are generous like that with their husbands. I find that when I visit among my rural relatives they often speak for me and that when they visit me among my urban friends I, in like manner, speak for them."

I suppose we parents can't always brag much about our manners towards our children. If we were so rude to our adult friends, we would have no friends. By the way, if you would like to have a list of books on manners for children and youths, write me in care of this paper, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp.

Security, Independence, Freedom from Money Worries—the means to enjoy life as you've dreamed of it, $30.00 every week, a "pay check" for the rest of your life, beginning October 15, 1941, guaranteed by The Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Company of Milwaukee. Or you may choose $25,000.00 in one lump sum. Open to all over 18 years of age. No letter to write! Just write a last line for the jingle below, and you may win.

Lots of Big Money Prizes Every Week for 6 Weeks. Besides the grand prize of $30.00 a week for life, there are 26 other big cash prizes each week: A crisp $1,000 bill and 25 one hundred dollar bills, awarded every week for 6 weeks! You can see—the more entries you send, the more opportunities you have to win one of the weekly cash prizes. At the end of the contest, one of the weekly cash prize winners gets the grand prize.

No Letter to Write! So easy to enter! All you do is supply a last line for the jingle below, and send it with an Oxydol box-top and a Camay wrapper (or facsimiles) to Camay-Oxydol, Dept. 2, Box 25, Cincinnati, Ohio. You can get complete rules and handy entry blanks at your dealer's. If you wish, you can use a plain sheet of paper.

Get in on This Record Contest. Think what it will mean to win such a big, valuable grand prize—made possible only because two great soaps join forces. So try for that lifetime income of $30.00 every week. It means security, luxuries, independence—and you may be the winner.

Hints on How to Win

Your last line may be about Oxydol or Camay, or both, or neither.

A trial of Oxydol and Camay, as these soaps are improved today, may suggest many last lines. That is one reason for the contest—to induce you to try these better soaps.

In your washer, Oxydol's the soap that gets clothes snowy white with maximum speed.

In tub, washer or dishpan, gives up to 3 times the suds of many soaps, cup for cup, and is kinder to hands than a whole group of well-known washday soaps, tested repeatedly. Amazingly "sneeze-proof," too—with no loss of sudsing speed, washing performance or mildness.

Today's Camay—with its greater mildness—is an important help to every woman who wants her skin to be lovely.

For Camay is milder by actual recorded test—in tests against ten other popular beauty soaps, Camay was milder than any of them. So let this milder Camay help you to a lovelier skin.

Get the handy entry blank from your dealer or use a plain sheet of paper.

Winners will be announced on the Radio

"Guiding Light" and "Woman in White" programs. See your local newspaper for time and stations.

A Single Fatality Mars Mansfield's 1941 Holiday Traffic Record

KEEP LABOR DAY

Week-End

ACCIDENT FREE

Read This Message From FREND C. BOALS, Traffic Commissioner

Mansfielders:—

"Labor Day! Always a double holiday! Always a new record in traffic deaths! Your Mansfield Police Traffic Department joins your State Highway Patrol and County Police in urging you to exercise care in your driving over Labor Day week end. To enjoy a fatality-free holiday as we did last Memorial Day will require the complete co-operation of every motorist and pedestrian. Perhaps in another year with improved laws and extended traffic education, we may be making progress against the death toll. But now, we are wholly dependent upon your willingness to co-operate.

"School starts September 3rd. Drivers be alert for children on streets and intersections. Watch for and observe School Patrol traffic directions. Students, work with your school patrol. Cross streets only at designated intersections. Older children can always help the younger ones. Let's be careful!

GEN. JOHNSON:

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON — Trust Buster Thurman Arnold must be having a continuous headache these days and I wonder about Senator O'Mahoney's joint anti-monopoly committee. Both of these gentlemen are sincere believers in decentralization of business into smaller units and opponents of the creation of great industrial empires. They have worked hard at their jobs and Arnold had built up the largest and most efficient organization for doing this that the country has yet seen.

Johnson

But all they have accomplished is a drop in the bucket to what other efforts of the government have done to reverse the trend they seek and to accelerate the growth of monopoly to an extent never imagined—and the process is only just beginning. Little business in this country is on its way out.

In July it was reliably reported that of army and navy defense business, six great companies had received 31 per cent. That is a matter of billions and is, of itself, a gigantic dislocation, but it doesn't tell a fraction of the story.

If smaller enterprises were left free to take non-defense business they could keep their heads above water. But such is not to be permitted for several reasons.

One is that the priorities system is going to cut off their supplies of materials, power and transportation.

Another is that governmental tax and credit-control policies are deliberately designed to deprive their customers of purchasing power.

It is a complex which is difficult to explore. Some of it is unavoidable. Some of it is a result of headlong, unplanned action. Some of it is new tinkering with unproved theories of inflation control and all of it is a mess which could bring catastrophe.

It is a fact that the men who guided the placing of this vast defense business with a few great corporations, were products of those corporations, many of whom did not sever all their financial relations with the mother hen. In a sense, they were dealing with themselves. On the other hand, they had a responsibility for quick production and went where speed was most likely.

One trouble was that the vast aggregation of smaller companies was not properly organized, and still are not properly organized, either to get a hearing in that headlong rush, or so to pool their resources and facilities as to insure performance if they had been offered a chance.

The present theoretical approach to their further destruction by cutting consumer purchasing power is to prevent inflation by high taxes and by advising people to get out of present debt and to incur no new debt.

This I can't understand at all. Inflation is simply high, or at its worst, runaway prices. For the first time in my contact with the problem we hear that higher taxes make lower prices.

Most taxes find their way into costs and prices. The principal authority on that is Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Unless absolute, direct controls on prices are applied—and they are not going to be—considerably higher prices are as certain as sunrise. The process of raising them is going on all around us. Also it is almost axiomatic, bad as it may sound, that a period of beginning inflation is a time not to get out of debt, but to get into it.

There is no space to discuss these divergent policies and theories here, further than to say that every single one of them tends toward the greatest increase in monopoly and destruction of small business in our history.

If the little fellows do not organize to fight their own battle for existence they can be very sure that no one else is going to do it for them.

MOVES TO CUT NON-ESSENTIAL EXPENDITURES

Senate Committee Receives Two Proposals to Slash Government Costs.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON —(AP)— President Roosevelt expressed a press conference opinion today that non-essential government expenditures could be reduced. He has advocated that for a long time, the president said, adding, however, that he did not pass the appropriation bills.

WASHINGTON—The senate finance committee today coupled its final work on the biggest tax bill in history with a move to cut "non-essential" federal expenditures for 1942 by $1,000,000,000 or $2,000,000,000.

With consideration of amendments almost concluded, Chairman Walter F. George, D., Ga., estimated the yield of the senate bill at $3,688,500,000 a year—nearly 500,000,000 higher than the taxes the house would impose.

The economy move came on two proposals by Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D., Va. Both were approved by voice vote. One added an amendment to the bill setting up a 13-man committee to study federal expenditures and recommend reductions and eliminations. The other was a resolution, apart from the bill, calling on Budget Director Harold D. Smith to submit, not later than Sept. 15, a detailed revision of the 1942 budget showing what expenditures he would recommend if he had been ordered to cut it $1,000,000,000, or $1,500,000,000 or $2,000,000,000.

The senate committee added and increased taxes yesterday to provide an extra $209,100,000 a year.

The corporation surtax was increased one percentage point. Instead of five per cent on income up to $25,000, the surtax will be six per cent; instead of six per cent on the remainder it will be seven per cent. This will raise $100,000,000 a year.

The 10 per cent admissions tax was increased to 15 per cent, to raise $72,050,000 a year.

The five per cent tax on monthly telephone bills was increased to 10 per cent, to raise $28,600,000.

Ed Baxter got all choked up and embarrased last night when the Ohio Senior Golf association presented him with a watch as a token of their appreciation for his work as secretary of the organization for many years without pay. "This is very," he said, and then waited for a word to express his feelings, "unexpected," and sat down amid the cheers of the golfers at their annual dinner held at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

What, no automobiles! Can you imagine looking west on Fourth street from Main around 9 o'clock in the morning and not seeing an automobile. But here's the picture, with street and sidewalks filled with people and a horse and buggy in the foreground. There's the News building, with its familiar clock tower and a flag floating above it. But why are there no automobiles? Because the picture was taken on the day of the "News Outing," August 28, 1905, at which time the late Dr. S. P. Ecki had about the only auto in town, and he was probably out making a call. The picture, a colored souvenir postcard, was found in an old book by F. E. Powell, at the Bookery, 108 North Main street.

NEGRO ADMITS RAPE, MURDER OF 6 WOMEN

Police Superintendent Says All Recent Capital Slayings Cleared Up.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — Police announced today that the recent wave of sex-slayings in the capital had been solved by the confession of a 30-year-old negro that he had raped and choked to death six Washington women and one New Yorker.

Acting Police Superintendent Edward J. Kelly said that Jarvis Roosevelt Catoe, a former houseman and undertaker's assistant, had admitted slaying a New York waitress, a pretty war department clerk, a month-old bride, and four negro women. He also admitted raping four other women.

New York police, who flew here yesterday to question Catoe, announced last night that he had admitted raping and strangling Mrs. Evelyn D. Anderson, 28, of New York in the Bronx on Aug. 4.

A few hours later Washington police revealed that they had obtained the confession of the rape-murder of Betty Strieff, pretty 23-year-old war department clerk from Des Moines, Ia., last June 15.

Kelly then announced that all the recent slayings in Washington had been admitted by Catoe. In addition to the Anderson and Strieff cases, he listed the following cases as "solved":

Mrs. Rose Simsons Abramowitz, 25-year-old bride of a Social Security board lawyer, raped and slain last March.

Ada Puller, negro, last Jan. 22; Lucy Kidwell, negro, 62, last Sept. 28; Mattie Steward, negro, 48, last Nov. 28; Josephine Robinson, negro, 34, Dec. 1, 1939.

Kelly announced the "solution" of the crimes after Catoe had been questioned all of Thursday and last night by New York and Washington police.

"I am convinced that the suspect's confession to the sex crimes is true," he said.

Mrs. Anderson's body was found on a street in the Bronx, N. Y., where it apparently had been thrown from an automobile by the slayer. Jewelry had been stripped from her body and her purse was missing. Police found the watch later in a New York pawnship and learned that it had been given to another woman by Catoe.

Sugar Industry Men Say Price Ceiling Threatens Shortage Of Raw Material.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — Representatives of the sugar refining industry contended today that all east coast refineries may be forced to close down by Oct. 15 because of an impending sugar shortage.

They conferred yesterday with officials of the office of price administration on the problem of prices and supply. It was learned that methods of rationing sugar, if such steps become necessary, were discussed but that no decisions were reached.

The refiners, it was said, warned price control officials that a shortage would result from the virtual stoppage of shipments of raw sugar from Cuba, this country's chief source of imports, since a ceiling was placed on the price of the product two weeks ago.

The "low price"—3½ cents per pound—and the lack of shipping facilities, they said, was to blame for the interruption in the flow of normal supplies.

These sources said a real shortage is imminent on the eastern seaboard and that stocks on hand are insufficient to meet consumer needs this year across the country. The situation, they added, has become so serious that, unless remedial steps are taken, a partial shutdown of refineries may be inevitable by Sept. 15, and a complete closure by mid-October.

NEWSMEN, EDITORS ARE HONORED AT OHIO STATE FAIR PRESS DAY

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS—Ohio editors and newsmen were honored today as officials counted receipts for the ninety-first annual State fair and indicated that the $25,000,000 exposition would end up "in the black."

Today was press day as well as conservation day and home and national defense day. Governor Bricker, State Agriculture Director John T Brown and President Ray B. Howard of the National Editorial association welcomed the newsmen at a noon luncheon.

Roy D Moore of Canton, president of the Ohio Newspaper association, responded on behalf of the 500 newspapermen at the fair.

For the sixth successive day, paid attendance exceeded all previous marks yesterday during governor's day. Paid admissions reached 59,432 yesterday and boosted the six-day total to 271,028 or 53,392 above the 217,636 admissions during the first six days of the 1940 fair.

The increased attendance was reflected in receipts at the fair attractions, particularly "By Dawn's Early Light," the evening musical cavalcade, and the horse show.

Officials reported that cavalcade receipts were approximately $7,000 ahead of last year's evening program and that the horse show had taken in approximately $2,000 more than the 1940 show.

Mrs. Don E. Williams, 51, Dies At Fredericktown Home.

FREDERICKTOWN—Mrs. Don E. Williams, 51, of Columbus, died yesterday here at the home of her mother, Mrs Nettie B. Hess, following a lingering illness.

She is survived by her husband, her mother, and a sister, Mattie Hess, of Fredericktown.

Private funeral services will be held at the Hess home Saturday at 2:30 p. m. Rev. W. Hilton Petry, of South Vernon Chapel, Mt. Vernon, will officiate. Burial will be in Ankenytown cemetery. Friends are invited to call at the home until noon Saturday.

DIES AT AGE 58

C. S. Gertig Succumbs at Home of Daughter In Mentor.

Carl S. Gertig, 58, of 53 West Augustine avenue, died early today at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Foster Funston, at Mentor, following a lingering illness.

Mr. Gertig, who was born in Winnamac, Ind., March 14, 1883, had spent the greater part of his life in this city where for many years he was engaged in the sign painting business.

He is survived by his widow, Bertha; two daughters, Mrs. Funston and Mrs. Marvin Taylor, of Mansfield, two sisters, Mrs. Carl Clutter, of Dayton, and Mrs. Karl Kunert, of Mansfield, and five grandchildren.

The body was taken to the Wappner funeral home. Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

CORONER PROBES WOMAN'S DEATH

Action Follows Report Victim Was Shot Twice In Heart.

CLEVELAND—(INS)—An investigation was launched today by Coroner S. R. Gerber into the fatal shooting of Mrs. Helen Pesta, 27-year-old mother of a four-week-old baby, whose death police tentatively described as suicide.

Gerber said the investigation was ordered after it was discovered that Mrs. Pesta had been shot twice through the heart, and not once as reported earlier by police.

The woman's body was found yesterday by her husband, Frank, who said he found his wife on the floor, a .32-caliber revolver nearby. Relatives told police Mrs. Pesta had been despondent over ill health.

Faces Death In Electric Chair For Two Slayings

(By United Press)

TOLEDO — Just 28 days after he shot and killed two Toledo business men, Thomas B. Williams, 37, Detroit negro, today faced death in the electric chair.

A three-judge court deliberated only 46 minutes yesterday before returning a verdict of guilty in the first degree murder trial of the ex-convict who was paroled July 1 from Ohio penitentiary.

Herman Kander, 26, and Samuel Arnovitz, 57, were slain by Williams on a Toledo street Aug. 1, when he tried to commandeer their autombole for a getaway after a holdup.

The verdict of guilty, without a recommendation for mercy, carries a mandatory sentence of death in the electric chair. Williams has three days to file an appeal.

He offered no defense at his brief trial and displayed no emotion when the verdict was read.

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

What Broadway Is.

BROADWAY is quite a character. When you get to know it, of course—and you can get to know it in a week or you can take a lifetime, depending upon whether you are William Saroyan or Sam Harris. Broadway has been kicked and kissed until it shows its black and blue — and also its lipstick marks. It's quite a composite, quite a kaleidescope. It has all the colors and the noises.

Kilgallen

They'll tell you Broadway is a street that starts at the Battery and doesn't get lost until it gets up-state near Albany. But they only talk about the Broadway that starts at 42nd street and gets lost somewhere up in the 60's.

And don't think of Broadway as a street. At times it's magnificent and at times it is as cheap and tawdry as last year's tinsel: but it's never as basic as pavement, curbs and sidewalks. It stretches its arm and its charm and its harm east and west of the street itself, so Broadway is everything in this town that hints of show business—whatever that is.

Broadway is an illusion, like sawing a woman in half. I said Broadway isn't a street at all, and yet I know it's a million Main streets. It's the Saturday night gaiety of Charleston and Baton Rouge and Denver and Tacoma, all wrapped up in one bright, boisterous package for the moon to shine on.

But sometimes when you are out until milkman time and you see the sun rise on it after the lights have gone out and the beautiful girls have gone home on the subway, you feel like Cinderella looking at the pumpkin, wondering how she could ever have thought it was a coach.

Oh, Broadway is an illusion, all right. It's an evasive something that so few can get ahold of, but which gets ahold of so many.

Broadway is a Pagliacci, too. It laughs through its phony tears and it winces and weeps and breaks its heart behind its stage laughter. So many of the smiles you see from out front are painted on, and so many tears backstage are black with mascara, and a laugh on Broadway doesn't last any time at all.

Broadway is a jazz baby, and it's the corn belt It's Benny Goodman, Eddy Duchin, Guy Lombardo and Wingy Mannone. It's Kostelanetz, Rapee and Toscanini

Tin Pan Alley runs right through Broadway. Whatever the street did, does, or will do, there will be the accompaniment of music by Irving Berlin or George Gershwin or Rodgers and Hart or Cole Porter.

That makes Broadway a song, too, doesn't it?

Well, anybody can have Broadway for a song. But he's got to write the song, or play it, or sing it better than songs are written or played or sung anywhere else in the world.

ARMY BEGINS TO USE NEW TANK KILLERS

But. Gen. Marshall Says Dummy Weapons Provide Valuable Training For Troops.

By FRANK I. WELLER
(S. N. S. Writer)

WASHINGTON—The army has graduated in spots, during four months of combat maneuvers, from sticks and stove pipes to experimental practice with some pretty fierce weapons.

Given enough of these, says Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff, and United States land forces will be superior to any military power on earth. They can get the men if they can get the material.

Soldiers dub the latest tokens of the mass of equipment to come "jeeps" and "swamp buggies"—but that is proud vernacular. High-powered 37-mm. guns of newest design, mounted on the swift, ugly little quarter-ton cars, shot scout tanks to a standstill at Ft. Meade, Md., on Aug. 27. At the same time self-propelled 1¼-ton 75-mm. guns, supplanting almost equally modern truck-drawn 75's, washed out the armored power of a simulated blitzkrieg attack.

The so-called tank killers, said to be superior to Nazi types, illustrate the rapid improvement in mobility and fire power of all American arms tested in 12 separate training maneuvers since May. Each succeeding operation has found a larger number of men equipped per unit with better pistols, rifles, machine guns, anti-aircraft guns, mortars, howitzers, anti-tank guns, cannon, tanks and warplanes. But, many a dummy weapon still bangs away theorretically in mock warfare.

And why not, asks General Marshall. The vast German army developed its formidable efficiency with cardboard tanks, wooden guns and stove pipe artillery. It was not fully equipped until it went to war.

Certainly a real weapon is more desirable. However, except for small caliber arms which use blanks more for the racket than anything else, no ordnance is fired in maneuvers. Actual shot and shell is the exclusive property of proving grounds during peacetime. Experts say little training value is lost on dummy guns since tactical employment of a weapon rather than mechanical operation is paramount in sham battles.

Winning units in war games are those which excell in placing men and material quickly and effectively for shelter and terrain advantages, in calculating range and in tactics and strategy.

These are the scoring points when umpires rule that batteries are silenced, planes downed, tanks shattered, objectives taken and troops killed, wounded or captured.

The four regional armies which make up the "Army of the United States" are about to polish off their 1941 schedule of 14 separate field maneuvers. The big show will be a month-long engagement in September between one-half million men of the Second and Third armies whose advance forces now are coming to grips on a front running east and west through Camp Polk, La. They will use right to the hilt all types of weapons, real or faked.

Books For Children

(Available at Mansfield Public Library)

The same legends which have inspired two great musical compositions have also inspired an author to write and illustrate two beautiful books for children that are now in circulation at Mansfield Public Library. The stories in themselves are really long fairy tales.

Here is a brief summary of each:

THE NUTCRACKER OF NUREMBERG, by Donald Cooke—The story told in Tschaikowsky's Nutcracker-suite tells of a princess bewiched by a mouse into an ugly nutcracker, and when she was freed years later by her handsome hero, he in turn became a nutcracker puppet. Of course, the story must end, so they may live happily ever after, so the Nutcracker has an exciting battle with the Mouse-king to prove his superiority.

THE FIREBIRD, by Donald Cooke—The legend tells us that long ago Prince Ivan set out to conquer the evil Kastchei. He travels through the bewitched orchard into the Kastchei's palace were made easier by the magic firebird who gave him advice from time to time. This is the story told also in music by Stravinsky in his Firebird suite.

APPRAISES AUTOS

NEW ALBANY, Ind.—(U.P.)—In spite of his blindness, Morgan Trinkle will give a cash or trade price on an automobile in 10 minutes. Through practice he has learned to appraise used cars by listening to the motors, and feeling the fenders, tires, paint and upholstery.

SONG WRITER DIES POOR

LONDON—(U.P.)—Frank Lee famous composer of "Where Do Flies Go In the Winter Time," and 1,400 other song hits died a poor man because he scorned jazz and would not write it. He left only $1,112—a sum which at one time he earned in less than a month.

Commended for Bomb Device

Although he has been in the army only three months, Private Robert Stubbs, stationed at the MacDill field, Tampa, Fla., has been commended officially by the war department for his patriotism and initiative. Stubbs has developed a new bomb dispersal device which he has turned over to the war department. He is pictured explaining his invention to his commanding officer, Col. Harry H. Young, left.

WILD RIDE PROVES U. S. HAS FORMIDABLE BOMBERS, PILOTS

By JACK REDDING
(INS Staff Correspondent)

WITH THE EIGHTH BOMBARDMENT SQUADRON, Shreveport, La.—My hand doesn't shake—much—my teeth aren't chattering, and I'm beginning to feel as though my inner organs aren't completely scrambled. But—

I have just finished the wildest, careening ride I ever hope to take—two hours and 15 minutes in the gunner's pit of the newest thing the army has, the Douglas A-24 dive bomber.

And if the German Luftwaffe has any better dive bombers or pilots to fly them than these madmen I flew with today, then they have a hopelessly wild air force.

The pilot of ship 10, my ship, Second Lieut. Schwab, a West Point graduate from Hooper, Neb., stood on his nose time after time as we bombed enemy concentrations, truck convoys and troops on a road.

I blacked out once. A reddish black curtain dropped across my vision and I experienced for about 10 seconds a feeling like nothing I have ever had before.

We hedge-hopped at 200 miles an hour over trees that were only a few feet below the plane's belly surfaces. In fact, we flew so wildly that I was all set to unstrap my parachute, a safety device strictly useless for this kind of aerial ratrace.

The project of flying in the American version of the Stuka had been discussed briefly with Maj. Gen. Robert C. Richardson, jr., commander of the Seventh army corps, but at first the army hesitated at allowing newsmen to ride in the ships. Then the order came through—more or less secretly. We were merely told: "Be in Shreveport at 5 a. m. tomorrow."

We were there and Ed Venable, a mechanic from Little Rock, Ark., took me across the darkened field to the plane in which I was to fly. He showed me the gadgets, gave me preliminary instructions. Then Lieut. Schwab arrived . . . shook hands briefly . . . "You ride with me."

In a few seconds we were in the air, flying in close formation with Lieut. W. H. Purintan as our squadron leader. Then Purintan dipped his wings. We passed under him like a card being shuffled by a crooked gambler. We were in an echelon, then a lufberry circle. We spotted our target.

We were to bomb an enemy counter attack being made on the 27th division which had crossed the Red river. We were at 8,500 feet.

Then we went into a half roll . . . a stall . . . then I lost the horizon. The next I knew we were standing right on the ship's nose. I watched . . . saw the altimeter go crazy . . . then at 2,800 feet we started to pull out. I can't say how fast we were diving—it's against the rules.

Then came that reddish black curtain. I could still see but ever so faintly. When I came out, it was like waking up from a knockout blow without the pain.

That was the start. We want on to strafe the troops below us, theoretically bombing the supply depots and roads on the ground. The dives didn't bother me so much. They seemed shallower.

Finally we were back at the field, landing in a column.

PETERBORO, Ont.—(U.P.)—Six-year-old Allan Johnston, of nearby Caven, used his grandfather's corncob pipe as a teething ring and now his parents can't stop him smoking. He'll smoke anything, cigars, pipe or cigarets.

Suit Against Railroad Line Follows Death Crash.

A $30,000 damage suit involving the death of Merlin E. Ruble, 27, near Shelby, in a grade crossing crash last Jan. 19 northwest of Mansfield had been filed in common pleas court today against the Pennsylvania Railroad company.

The damages are sought by Dessie C. Ruble, administratrix of estate of Ruble, who was the father of three small children.

The plaintiff contends that the railroad was negligent in failing to provide a warning signal at the crossing which is on a county road. The petition states further that a curve and hill obscure the motorist's view to the east of the crossing.

Attorneys for the plaintiff are John C. O'Donnell, C. J. Anderson and J. V. Will.

U. S. Will Train 68,000 Soldiers As Army Cooks

The war department plan is to train more than 68,000 cooks and 7,000 bakers to supply the gastronomic urges of the 1,400,000 men who will soon compose the regular army, according to army chiefs here.

NEW ORLEANS—(INS)—Certain strategists who believe the U. S. World war fighter was a better man for being better fed, will approve the army schools in the Fifth Corps area where 1,077 soldier-student cooks and bakers are being trained.

In Louisiana there already are two main schools with 1,077 students enrolled. Large military camps in the state have subschools, whose graduates often are sent to the main schools for sort of graduate courses as main chefs.

An army candidate for co spends a day in the classroo for theoretical instruction. T following day he goes to t kitchen and puts his book learn into the pot, in a manner speaking. This goes on and and by the time he graduates student cook is familiar wi army recipes, all types of ratio basic elements of nutrition, me cutting, operation of field kitc ens and the arithmetic necessa to keep mess accounts.

Defending Champ Has Battle to Retain Senior Crown

Sport Podge by REX HESS

If the kids of all ages have as much fun in this world as the old boys of 50 to 75 and over in the Ohio Seniors Golf association have at their annual tournament, then I'll say to you, the kids are doing all right.

Staid businessmen, manufacturers, professional men, statesmen, educators, leaders in their own communities, take down their hair, tune up their tonsils and let loose with all the melodies of their youth and all the years between when these old fellows get together round the 19th hole, even as Mr. and Mrs. Dub and you and I the world over, my friends.

And the fun they have in Mansfield for two days each year as they put away their worldly cares and swing and cuss with brassie and midiron, niblick and spoon, driver and putter, might and main, has become an important part of their lives.

Dr. W. D. Inglis of Columbus, president of the association, put it this way last night at their dinner at the Leland:

"After the Westbrook clubhouse burned down last spring, Columbus Country club invited us to hold our tournament there this summer. But even the 20 members of this association from Columbus protested against moving the tournament from Mansfield.

"We felt that we in Columbus never would be able to extend the same fine hospitality to this organization which Mansfield has given us in the past 13 years."

So, Mr. and Mrs. Mansfield and Mr. and Mrs. Westbrook, it's your turn to take a bow.

There's some doubt that any of the 98 players in the tournament yesterday and today had any more fun than did former Governor George White.

But there's no doubt at all about any of them having any more exercise than did Ohio's former chief executive from Marietta.

He toured the 18 holes at Westbrook Thursday in just 127 strokes, taking 62 smacks at the onion on the first nine, and no less than 65 swings on the second.

The Governor explained:

"Two years ago I had high score and was presented with a green umbrella.

"Last year I got smart and improved my game, and as a result was caught right in the middle, neither high nor low in my age group. And I didn't get a prize.

"If anybody gets any more strokes than I do in this tournament, they're going to have to do some swingin'. I'm goin' to get a prize."

That's the way to go, old fella,
Make 'em give you that umbrella.

Mansfield racquet swingers aren't through waving their tennis bats for this season, even though all city championships are tucked away for the summer.

At least six, and possibly more of the local netters are planning to take in the North Central Ohio men's singles and doubles at Galion starting tomorrow and winding up Monday.

Bob Spear, No. 1 man of DePauw and Mansfield tennis, with his city singles championship and share of men's doubles and mixed doubles titles, will go to Galion to defend the N. C. O. singles crown he won last year.

He'll be paired in doubles with Bob Enos, who helped him win the doubles in the News-Journal tourney. Also competing at Galion will be Thornton Moore, Bob Keefe, Bob Keene and Dick Armold.

Go to it, boys, the season's young,
You needn't quit till the last net's hung.

Kuzava Hurls Braves to Win Over Birds

Braves Keep Pace With Sox

Score 7 to 1 Decision; Meet Findlay Tonight.

WILL someone please beat those pesky Fremont Green Sox a few times for our Braves?

Both Mansfield and Fremont won again last night to leave the Sox still three games ahead of the Braves in the torrid Ohio State league race which ends Monday.

For Mansfield it was the ninth victory in their last 10 games as they walloped the Red Birds at Fostoria 7 to 1 back of Bob Kuzava's airtight hurling.

They're willing to continue their winning ways against the Findlay Oilers tonight at the Fairground, with Pat Patterson doing the heaving for the Braves, but they'll need outside help if they're to overtake Fremont, who swamped the Oilers last night 13 to 2.

Irish the Lefty Kuzava limited the Birds to seven scattered hits last night, gave only one base on balls, and fanned seven, while the Braves were getting to Dusseau for nine blows and two passes. Dusseau fanned five.

Bill Salem sparked the Mansfield attack with a double and two singles in four trips to the dish, while Bill Reinka garnered three singles in four times up.

Harry Siegbert got the only other extra base blow for the Braves, a double.

Mansfield won the game with a three-run splurge in the second inning, while Fostoria also got its lone run in the second.

Both teams resorted to that thing known as inside baseball, no less than five sacrifices being chalked up during the evening by Eddie Mutryn, Dick Morse, Bobby TeStruth, Joe Cannon and Muddy Waters.

Louisville Cuts Red Birds' Lead

(By Associated Press)

The Louisville Colonels have chopped three games off Columbus' lead in the American Association in the last week and by virtue of last night's double victory over the leaders Louisville is nearly within grabbing distance of the Red Birds.

The Colonels defeated the flock, 4 to 1 and 5 to 2, to reduce the gap separating the teams to 5½ games.

The three tightly bunched clubs in third, fourth and fifth places all emerged victorious from last night's encounters to keep the interest in the final playoff position at high pitch.

Kansas City, in third, turned in a double triumph over St. Paul, 10 to 1, and 14 to 3. Fourth-place Minneapolis put over a run in the ninth to set back Milwaukee, 3 to 2. The fifth-place Toledo Mud Hens unfolded their second straight win over Indianapolis, 7 to 4.

RUDY MUCHA SIGNS WITH CLEVELAND RAMS

CLEVELAND — (INS) — Big Rudy Mucha, former University of Washington All-American center, was in the fold today. Mucha signed with Coach Dutch Clark and general manager Billy Evans last night in Chicago where he played in the all-star game.

The All-American snapper back previously had a tie-up with the New York Yankees of the American league but the deal fell through.

Elks Lead In Loop Reduced

Tinkey Lumber and Bissman's combined to chop down the Elks' first place margin in the News-Journal B golf league to four points last evening, as the B-loopers wiped up the first of last spring's rained out and postponed matches.

Tinkey's edged the Elks 3 to 2 while Bissman's took a 4 to 1 win over Tucker Furnitures and climbed back into a mathematical chance to catch the flying lodgemen.

Matches rained out in the fourth week of the season will be played off next week, winding up the schedule.

News-Journal edged the Moose 3 and 2 and Central Fruit scored a 2 to 1 win over City News in other matches last evening at Possum Run.

Three individual matches went into extra holes as Bob Henry won from Bud Houston on the 11th green; Jim Will defeated Dick Treisch, and Merle Spurgeon defeated Maurice Byrnes in 10-hole matches.

Adam Brandt, Harry Fay and Wayne Anthony each turned in cards of 38 to tie for medal honors.

Ward Favored to Repeat In Amateur

OMAHA—(AP)—The boys in the field club's locker rooms will tell you that Marvin (Bud) Ward, the curly-haired husky from the far west, is heading toward another national amateur golf championship.

Belting Bud was rated tops in the semi-final field which battled down the field club's narrow, trouble dotted fairways in 36-hole matches today.

"Say, that guy can beat any amateur in the country," said one of the boys who dropped out in the quarterfinal round. You hear similar remarks about the Spokane, (Wash.) slugger in other huddles down where both the winners and losers mingle.

Bud's semi-final foe was the almost fragile appearing Bobby Riegel, a young man from Houston (Tex.) and those same guys downstairs named Ward to advance to the championship final against the winner of the match between good-looking Pat Abbott, the former movie extra, and tall Ted Bishop, the Bostonian.

Ankrum's Only Brave to Make League All Star Team

DURHAM, N. C.—Every club in the loop had a hand in making up the 1941 All-Star team of the Ohio State league. There were four Fremont Green Sox, three Lima Pandas, two Tiffin Mud Hens, one Findlay Brown, one Mansfield Brave and one Fostoria Red Bird.

None of the players pulled down unanimous support from the voters, but Lefty Lloyd Fisher of Fremont, the southpaw hurler, missed only one ballot. Strangely enough, that was taken from him by a team-mate, Hal Cisgan.

Outstanding at their positions and winning easily were Fred Gerken of Fremont at first base, Bob Ankrum of Mansfield at short, Gene Kavanaugh of Lima in center field, Lester Pruett of Fostoria in right and Chappie Geygan of Fremont, the all-star manager.

There was a hot campaign at third base, where Cecil Hubbard of Lima came out best over Walter Siera of Fremont, but it was necessary for the former to call on his second-choice ballots to gain the edge.

Bill Campau of Tiffin, the team catcher, also had trouble landing his berth, for Hank Miesle of Fremont gave him a hard run and was close behind the Mud Hen receiver in the final count.

There were 11 candidates with their hats in the ring for the utility job, and with the vote widely spht, the post went to John Cindric of Lima, but with very little room to spare.

With Kavanaugh and Pruett cinched for outfield berths, the scrap for the third job was a torrid one, with Charley Gerlach of Tiffin getting a close call over Roland Eagan of Fremont.

Cindric, who placed at first base on last year's all-star nine and slipped into the utility spot this year, is the only holdover from the 1940 team.

Votes of the league scribes and managers were collected and tabulated by the National Association press bureau. Players who received one or more votes but did not place on the team are given honorable mention. Tabulated result of the poll is listed below:

NEW YORK — (The Special News Service)—Mike Jacobs admits he "ain't had a laugh like it since the petunias came up." . . . Here everybody's mourning that the world series'll cut into the Louis-Nova gate—and Uncle Mike only has $125,000 advance orders in the till already. . . . And if the National league is such a great pitchers' loop, how come the three top lifetime records in the big time today are owned by American league elbowers? . . . Lefty Grove with 300 wins, Red Ruffing with 245 and Ted Lyons with 243. . . . In case you haven't noticed, the next game the Yanks win puts the old mathematical elimination slug on the Tigers—who only copped last year's flag.

DIS-A AND DAT-A.

The thing that made up Larry MacPhail's mind about bringing Augie Galan to Brooklyn instead of letting him escape to Los Angeles was that Augie always batted .320 in Ebbets Field as a Chicago Cub. . . . After giving his Iowa sophs the double-O, Eddie Anderson didn't even bother taking his crying towel out of the mothballs. . . . Frisco is bidding for the 1942 PGA tournament. . . . And the Baltimore Sun's C. M. Gibbs, hearing that Bobby Feller is working on a new pitch, wonders if "a new team probably wouldn't be of more help."

GENIUS?

The winner of this week's furlined hankerchief is the brilliant mind in Joliet, Ill., who invented a softball game with three teams playing at the same time. One bats, one fields, and one's on the bench. . . . When a side's retired, it takes over the bench, the fielding team comes in to hit and the outfit that was resting takes the field. . . . If you can stand any more, try Einstein's theory.

TYGER GRIDDERS TO PRACTICE ON MONDAY

First official practice session for Mansfield high school gridders has been scheduled by Coach Paul Snyder for Monday morning.

The equipment room will be opened at 9 o'clock for distribution of uniforms, and the boys will get down to their Labor day work at 10 o'clock, Snyder said today.

Champ Hopes To See Finals

Moorhead to Follow Championship Play.

Bob Moorhead, Westbrook Country club golf champion for the last three years, who has been in University hospital, Columbus, for three months following an operation on his knee, may be on hand Monday to see the finals of this year's club tournament.

Although he missed his chance to compete in this year's tourney, Moorhead, now a student a Ohio State, had set his heart on seeing the championship play, and today he had a tentative promise from his doctor that he might be able to come home for the event.

So on crutches or in a wheelchair, Bob is planning to follow the finalists around the Westbrook course in their holiday battle for the title.

Semi-finals in the four flights of the tournament are being played this week-end.

Cleveland Attorney Takes Lead In Tourney

Last Year's Title Holder Ties With Joe Wells For Second

Defending Champion Frank Pelton of Cleveland has a battle on his hands today to retain the crown of the Ohio Seniors Golf association as it goes through its second and final day of divot digging at Westbrook Country club in its 13th annual tournament.

After yesterday's opening 18-hole test, Pelton trailed a fellow Clevelander, Attorney F. B. Fults from Canterbury club, by just four strokes, and was tied for second place with Joe M. Wells of East Liverpool, former five-time Ohio amateur champion.

Fults shot even par for the second nine, after going two over perfect figures on the first nine holes, turning in a card of 38-36—74. Pelton had 39-39—78, and Wells 37-41—78.

There were others close enough to cause trouble. W. B. Foden of Cleveland had 39-40—79; H. B. Smith of Cadiz 42-38—80; F. F. Hall of Zanesville 38-42—80; Earl G. Markert of Zanesville 43-37—80; George Kibler of Columbus 41-40—81; B. W. Moore of Cadiz 40-41—81; N. M. West of Lakewood 43-38—81, and E. I. Bayer of Toledo 41-40—81.

Scores of all the 98 starters figure in the tournament championship, but the tourney is also divided into five age divisions starting with 75 and over, and going down to the 50 years needed for membership in the organization.

George M. Gray of Coshocton, defending champion of Class A for those 75 and over, leads his division after the first day's play with 51-42—93.

C. W. Stage, who won top honors last year in Class B for players between the ages of 70 and 74, led his group with 46-44—90.

In Class C, for those between 65 and 69, the defending champion, C. H. Foster of Cleveland, is in a three-way tie for second place at 92 behind F. A Sanford of Lorain who has 46-42—88.

Fults, the tournament leader, also leads Class D for those between 60 and 64 with his 74 total.

Last year George Kibler of Columbus and D. E. Carey of Zanesville tied for first in this division. Today Kibler is second with an 81 and Carey third with 84.

Pelton's 78 leads Class E for those between 55 and 59 with Foden second at 79 and Smith third at 80. Forrest Brundage of Toledo, defending champion, is tied for 10th at 86.

Joe Wells leads Class F for players between 50 and 54 with his 78, and the two Zanesville golfers, Hall and Markert, are tied for second at 80.

The oldsters resumed play this morning at 9 o'clock, with foursomes starting from the first tee every five minutes.

Last night at their annual dinner at the Mansfield-Leland hotel they re-elected officers, including President W. D. Inglis of Columbus, Vice-President G. W. Ritter of Toledo, Secretary E. D. Baxter of Mansfield, Tournament Chairman L. W. Olson of Mansfield, and the following members of the tournament committee: John Moxon of Cleveland, E. S. Weller of

Indians To Face Tigers

A's Two Big Innings Give Milnar 16th Defeat.

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Cleveland was still half a game shy of third place today after the Athletics had spoiled the Tribe's opportunity to catch the Red Sox.

Al Milnar suffered his 16th defeat yesterday by allowing Philadelphia to nail him in the first and seventh innings for a 5 to 3 win, while the Tigers were taming third-place Boston.

Cleveland will open a three-game series with the Tigers here tomorrow, today's contest having been set back to create a double-header Sunday.

Howard Pollet is a young fellow with whom baseball fans might as well get acquainted, because he is going to be a great star and may help squeeze the St. Louis Cardinals into this year's National league championship.

Pollet is the 20-year-old southpaw who turned the Texas league upside down for Houston before the Cards promoted him a couple weeks ago. Down there he won 20 and lost four, had an earned-run average of 1.06, and pitched five shutouts, including a no-hitter.

Yesterday he shut out the New York Giants, 5-0, on three scattered singles. Previously he had beaten the Boston Braves, 3-2, on four hits, and had lost to the Brooklyn Dodgers, 3-2, while giving seven safeties.

His triumph over the Giants came while the Dodgers had an open day and shaved Brooklyn's first-place margin to one game.

The National league had another spectacular pitching show as Boston downed the Chicago Cubs, 2-1. Tom Earley held the Cubs to two hits, one of them a homer by Phil Cavarretta in the ninth.

Pittsburgh edged out the Phillies, 3-2, with three runs in the ninth, two of them on a double by little Lee Handley.

The New York Yankees maintained their 17-game lead in the American league by bopping the St. Louis Browns 8-5, in 10 innings. Tom Henrich hit his 26th homer with one on in the third.

Thornton Lee, the year's outstanding lefthander in the American league, chalked up his 17th victory by holding the Washington Senators to four singles while the Chicago White Sox rolled to a 4-0 shutout. Rudy York hit a homer with the bases loaded in the seventh inning to give the Detroit Tigers an 8-7 triumph over the Boston Red Sox.

Pacers Close Fair Program

Parshall's Entry Heads Free-For-All Event.

COLUMBUS, O.—(AP)—A three-event program topped by a $500 free-for all pace brought the five-day Ohio State Fair Harness race meeting to a close today.

Fearless Peter, with H. M. Parshall of Urbana at the reins, headed the entry list for the free-for all.

Two other $500 purse events are on the card.

Before a crowd estimated at 12,000, Lansdown yesterday added the Governor's Cup to the director of agriculture trophy. He won at the fair as a two-year-old trotter last year.

The sleek bay Son of Scotland, owned by Will Hughes of Cleveland, won in straight heats timed at 2:08, 2:07½ and 2:08½. Johnny Caton drove and the purse was $1,500.

Two other horses also sired by Scotland won their events in straight heats. Scots Emilee, owned by Walter Michael of Bucyrus, won the three-year-old pacing stake, and Grace Scotland, owned by Leo McNamara of Indianapolis and Henry Wadwick of Cleveland, took the 2.20 trot.

Pelton Trails In Golf Joust

Mansfield, and E. M. Ayers of Zanesville.

Major Norman Imrie of Columbus was the dinner speaker, and regaled the golfers with his latest batch of stag party stories, and he's got a million. He hit a serious note at the end, however, when he declared that "Nazi bombs may destroy London's cathedrals, but Nazi savagery has not yet perfected the bomb that will blast the spirit of freedom for which England's heroes, buried in those cathedrals, fought and died."

The hotel also served lunch at the Westbrook club yesterday and today.

Bears Blast All-Stars

Luckman Leads Pros To 37-13 Triumph.

By WILLIAM WEEKES

CHICAGO—(AP)—From the latest available evidence, it's going to take a lot of blasting to jar Chicago's professional football champion Bears loose from their National league honors.

The evidence was presented last night at historic Soldier field before a series record throng of 98,200 who saw the Bears, led by brilliant Sid Luckman, crush a battling squad of the headline stars of 1940 college football, 37 to 13, in the Chicago Tribune's eighth annual All-Star spectacle.

The margin was nothing like the 73 to 0 rolled up over the Washington Redskins in last year's league championship game, but it looked highly impressive for an early season start. The triumph, third in a row for the professional brand of football, was accomplished in a manner which indicated the bulging Bears and their "T" formation could have done better if necessary.

The All-Stars with such 1940 greats as Michigan's Tommy Harmon, sturdy George Franck of Minnesota, both All-Americans, and Norman Standlee of Stanford's undefeated Rose Bowl victors in the battle front, made a contest of it for one period, came up with thrilling plays and battled every minute of the way—but didn't have what was needed to slow up the power-packed pro outfitters.

Luckman, whose passing and leadership were at concert pitch, fired a touchdown pass to Ken Kavanaugh in the first quarter, another to George McAfee in the fourth, one to Kavanaugh which set up another score, along with completing numerous others. To complement his passing, Luckman mixed in powerful line-crushing from Fullbacks Bill Osmanski, Gary Famiglietti and Joe Maniaci, and smart running by McAfee, Ray Nolting, and Harry Clark.

Clark scored twice from close range and Bob Nowaskey accounted for the other Bear touchdown on a pass from Young Bussey. Lee Artoe, the Bears' star sophomore tackle, provided the other three points with a spectacular 46-yard place kick.

The All-Stars' big moments of glory came in the first period when Harmon whipped a pass to Franck for a score-tying touchdown, and in the final quarter when Charlie O'Rourke, the little fellow from Boston College, shot a handsome 40-yard pass to Jackie Robinson, Negro star from U. C. L. A., who ran six yards for the other touchdown.

Harmon got away for several sizable gains, and the kick-returns and all around play of Franck brought him a huge cheer when he was removed in the third period after suffering a torn muscle under his right shoulder.

NARROW PRICE CHANGES CLOUD STOCK MARKET

Listings Move Both Ways as Observers Note Heavy Public Spending.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Narrow price changes either way clouded the stock market's direction today.

Attracting modest early bids were U. S. Steel, Chrysler, American Telephone, Goodyear and Anaconda.

Occasional backwardness was exhibited by Bethlehem Steel, Republic Steel, Westinghouse and Sears Roebuck.

Among items studied by market observers in their efforts to chart a trend course were:

Continued heavy public spending throughout the nation was reported by Dun and Bradstreet.

The Federal Reserve board confirmed the merchandising sprint in a compilation placing department store distribution in the week ended Aug. 23 at 29 per cent above the like 1940 period.

Being Eleven and one-third (11 1-3) acres of land with dwelling and other buildings thereon, located in Weller Township and more particularly described as follows:

Being in Section 8, Township 24, and Range 17: Beginning at the intersection (old) of the Olivesburg and Mansfield and Shiloh and Olivesburg Roads and running north 70° west 3739.1 feet to the center of Shiloh and Olivesburg Road; thence north 76° 10' west 518 feet in center of said road; thence south 26° east 1405 feet; thence north 27° 30' east 122.1 feet; thence north 62° 50' east 107.2 feet; thence along and with the center line of old Mansfield & Olivesburg road north 3° 30' west 429 feet; thence north 5° east 429 feet to the place of beginning. Excepting that portion of land deeded to Ella Jones, August 3, 1892, Recorded Deed Record Vol. 105 at Page 305 as follows: Starting at Intersection of Old Olivesburg and Mansfield Road, 128 feet along center line of said road; thence west 90 feet to a point 137 feet from Shiloh & Olivesburg Road and 126 feet west from said starting point; Also a piece of land 67 feet north and south and 30 feet east and west laying along the side of said lot on the west and joining on the Shiloh & Olivesburg Road, and being parallel to the forward parcel. Measurements exclusive of roadways. Above description total of 11 1-3 acres more or less.

The prayer of said petition is for the sale of real estate to pay legacies and debts and for other equitable relief.

Said defendants are required to answer said petition on or before the 20th day of October, 1941.

AMOS KIRKWOOD,
Executor of the Estate of
JACOB R. LAVERTY,
deceased,
By ANDERSON AND WILL,
His Attorneys.

I—VITAL STATISTICS

1—Death Notices

KOONTZ

Mrs. Ora, 76, widow of Craig Koontz, died Thursday afternoon at her home, 464 South Diamond St., after an illness of several weeks. The body was removed to the Wappner Funeral Home where friends may call and from where services will be held Saturday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, Rev. B. F. Hagelbarger officiating. Burial in the Mansfield Cemetery. (Wappner Funeral Directors.)

2—Card of Thanks

WE WISH to extend our sincere thanks to friends, neighbors, relatives, Sisters of St. Francis and Msgr. R. C. Goebel for their consoling words. To those who sent floral pieces, furnished cars and to anyone who in anyway helped lighten the burden in the loss of our dear son Richard Eugene Mapes.
Mr. and Mrs. Carl Mapes and Family.
Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Kreinbihl,
Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Mapes.

3—In Memoriam

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of my dear and only child Jessie H. Grice, who passed away one year ago August 27th and it has seemed like a lifetime to me (her mother) a homesickness that never can be cured in this world. She was so good, so kind to me. Mother always come first, and her good neighbors and friends will cherish her memory. Still I must bear the cross alone. Earth is a desert drear, Heaven is my home.

At home in the beautiful hills of God
By the valley of rest so fair
Some day, some time when my work is done,
With joy I shall meet you there.

—Her Mother.

REPORTS 333 'DEATH TRAP' BRIDGES HERE

Richland Engineer Says County Still Has Numerous Unsafe Structures on Roads.

Although dozens of new cement bridges have been built on Richland county roads with WPA help during the past five years, the county still has 333 structures 16 feet or less in width which are classed as dangerous for motor travel, a survey completed by County Engineer Howard Sword showed today.

The narrow "death traps" are being replaced rapidly, however, with 200 bridges at least 22 feet wide constructed in the county since 1933, the engineer said.

Reminders of the old horse-and-buggy days, seven culverts only 12 feet wide still hold up traffic on county routes. Three of them are in Washington township, two in Worthington township, and one each in Sandusky and Jefferson townships. Except for the one in Sandusky township, all of them are in the southern part of the county.

Sword said any bridge under 16 feet wide is too narrow for two modern automobiles, creating traffic hazards if drivers attempt to pass in them.

The engineer's survey listed a total of 883 bridges on county and township roads. Only 158 of them are 24 feet or more in width. Eighty-seven are from 22 to 24 feet wide, 89 from 20 to 22 feet, 80 from 18 to 20 feet, 136 from 13 to 18 feet, 200 from 14 to 16 feet, 126 from 12 to 14 feet, and seven 12 feet or less.

TRAP SUSPECT

Columbus Police Get Man Who Admits Robberies.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Police trapped a 20-year-old suspect in a beer parlor today after the night clerk of the Jefferson hotel was robbed so quietly that guests in the lobby were unaware of the holdup. The amount of loot was not determined.

Detective Clarence Carpenter said the young man confessed that he twice had left an army camp without leave and had committed several robberies.

LIBRARY HAS NEW BOOK ON NAZI GERMANY

'Above Suspicion' Deals With Daring Mission of Tutor And Attractive Wife.

An Oxford tutor and his attractive wife lived the thrilling story that is told in Helen MacInnes' new book, "Above Suspicion," now available at the Mansfield Public Library. The book deals with Nazi Germany.

The mission of these two was to find out if a man was alive and their only protection was the ability to pass successfully as tourists. The book, full of adventure and suspense, tells of the contacts they made, each of which might have easily ended in death for the person contacted.

Other new books on the fiction list include:

THE SUN IS MY UNDOING by Margaret Steen, an 18th century romance that is crowded with violence and drama. Young Mathew Flood, driven from the arms of his bride-to-be to the afterdeck of an African slaver, embarks on a journey that is to cover half the globe — Africa, Barbados, Cuba, Seville and Madrid, returning at last to the stately homes of England. It is a story of flashing blades, desperate men and beautiful women, riches beyond counting, of murder, adventure and love.

NOT BY BREAD ALONE by Mary Frances Doner is a novel of three women who lived with their men in the tiny galleys of Great Lakes freighters. Maggie Killean and her daughter Kate, and her granddaughter Nancy learned the hard way that fortunate women are not always those pampered and indulged but those who get what they want through fearless initiative and undemanding love.

OTHER FICTION: THE HAWK'S DONE GONE by Haun, DECOY by Adams, TEMPORARY ADDRESS: RENO by Cuthrell.

MY SCOTTISH HUSBAND by Lady Neish is witty, kind, and gracious, filled with the laughter and loving comprehension of a charming Englishwoman married to an engaging Scotsman—and all going to prove that husbands are pretty amusing creatures. Their home was the meeting place for many of England's most interesting people, but the book is first of all the author's own story.

MR. SHAKESPEARE OF THE GLOBE by Frayne Williams is a study of Shakespeare's background, private life, acting and writing career, and a brief consideration of his writings. Partial contents: Shakespearean gossip and tradition—Shakespeare's workshop—Shakespeare as a musician—The great folio of 1623—Modern Shakespearean discoveries—Portraits of Shakespeare—The actors of Shakespeare — Shakespeare and the critics.

Rosita Forbes, author of INDIA OF THE PRINCES, presents a vivid picture of a fabulous country of incredible contrasts. From its wealth and color it might seem to be a legendary land of another century, but its importance in these war-time days to England—and to America—is vital.

WINGS OF VICTORY: THE R. A. F. by Ivor Halstead is the story of the R. A. F. from the beginning up to the present time—covering all fronts, all personnel, including the Australian, New Zealand, Canadian and American pilots. Factual, thrilling and well illustrated.

OTHER NON-FICTION: CANINES AND COYOTES by Almirall, GROWTH OF AMERICAN DEMOCRACY by Nichols, AROUND THE WORLD MAKING COOKIES by Perry, RECIPES AND MENUS FOR FIFTY by Smith, PURPLE DUST by O'Casey, THE NEW TESTAMENT IN BASIC ENGLISH, THE RAILROADER by Cottrell, PROBLEMS OF MODERN EUROPE by Jackson and Lee, HIGHLAND SHEPHERDS by Hewitt, DOG DAYS by Barker, HOW TO CREATE CARTOONS by Greene.

Mystery Package Explodes Killing Child at Canton

CANTON —(UP)— Police today sought the source of a mysterious package which yesterday exploded in the hands of James Welch, 10, killing him.

Before his death last night in Aultman hospital, the boy said he found the package, which he described as "a brown stick," at the Stark county fairgrounds. He said he was focusing the sun's rays on it, through a magnifying glass, when it exploded.

Ed S. Wilson, secretary of the Stark county agricultural society, said the fair management had no explosives on the grounds. The 1941 fair opens Monday.

Police speculated that the package may have been discarded by a fireworks outfit which presented a display at the fairgrounds recently.

Tanks? They're Easy Marks for New Army Unit

Enemy tanks are the prey of the United States army's newest outfit, the provisional G. H. Q. tank destroyer battalion, which gave a demonstration of its fighting ability before army officers at Fort Meade, Maryland. A half-trac scout car, on which is mounted a 77-mm. gun, is pictured, left above, going into action against attacking tanks, right. The new unit is armed with both 77-mm. and 37-mm. anti-tank guns mounted on scout cars and "jeeps."

MAP REPORT ON EVALUATION OF CITY'S Y.W.C.A.

Special Committee to Report; Determine If Organization 'Clicks' Here.

An evaluation of Y. W. C. A., services and activities made during the summer months by a special committee headed by Miss Emma Waring is expected to answer the question, "Is the Y. W. C. A. Clicking?" Miss Bertha Gregory, executive secretary, said today.

Scheduled to report at a committee meeting early in September with the possibility of making recommendations to the board of directors the following month, the committee will submit its findings on a variety of subjects, Miss Gregory said.

These findings, ranging from the subject of employment and housing as they pertain to the Y. W. C. A.'s own placement bureau to the social and activity program of the organization, will portend to show whether or not the program is effective as its stands or in need of revision.

Mrs. Hoffman Calhoun will evaluate the employment service and Mrs. Scott Coffin the service which attempts to obtain suitable homes for women and girls seeking residence in the city.

The number of girls employed in Mansfield and the kind of work they are doing will be pointed out by Miss Marie Weil in an effort to show the type of activity that can give them the richest experience.

A similar report will be made on the colored groups by Mrs. R. J. Welch

Miss Faye Cisco will round out the activity picture by showing whether or not the association is enabling its members to get the most from the present program.

Need and place for case work in a group work agency and the distribution of secretarial service and association activities will be discussed by Mrs. Paul Tappan.

Mrs. John Salyer will consider the needs of the high school recreation groups, Girl Reserve council and daytime camp from the standpoint of enlarging the program.

The number of people who developed new skills and thoughts in the Bible, crafts, dancing and bridge classes will be discussed by Miss Maude Cunningham.

Values of relationship with other social agencies in the national and world Y. W. C. A. movement will be shown by Mrs. F. L. Hanson, and Miss Marjorie Rhoads will explain board and committee relationships.

Facts pretaining to the use of the Y. W. C. A. building and physical equipment from a financial angle will be presented by Mrs. Anna Knote.
